Platform Pledging Tax, Spending Cuts Adopted

Last Minute Civil Rights Fight Avoided

Virginians, In Floor Caucus, Apply 'Gag' To Two Dissenters

COW PALACE, San Francisco, Aug. 21 (AP)—Republicans tonight adopted a platform that pledged they would cut taxes and government spending, balance the budget and maintain an "atmosphere" that would encourage economic growth.

Unlike the Democrats last week, the Republicans managed to sidestep a last minute fight over a civil rights plank.

A moderate plank went through without any public comment, although members of the Virginia delegation, who had been waving the Confederate flag all afternoon, came up with a couple of dissenters who felt the plank was too strong.

In a caucus on the floor, the Virginians voted 28-2 against permitting the two objectors to say their piece on the floor.

The Democrats had trouble from the other side of the Mason-Dixon Dixon Line. Some Northerners complained the Democratic platform was too mild on civil rights, and though there was something of a flurry, the Democratic platform also was adopted as written.

Unanimous Voice Vote

Chairman Joseph W. Martin gaveled the GOP platform to adoption by unanimous voice vote.

The Republicans didn't read their whole platform — only the preamble — and in a unique twist members of President Eisenhower's Cabinet stepped up to comment briefly on the planks that dealt with their departments.

In their platform the Republicans said they think this is the major issue now facing the world:

Shall government be the servant or the master of men?

A declaration of party faith held that it must be the servant.

Read before the party's national convention by platform Chairman Prescott Bush, senator from Connecticut, the declaration gave these GOP purposes — the guarding of free institutions, establishing and maintaining a peaceful world, and the building of a dynamic prosperity at home.

Ike States Principles

The declaration, which served as the preamble to the party platform which the convention adopted at today's session, also listed a "statement of principles" by President Eisenhower.

These principles, described as "neither partisan nor prejudiced, but warmly American," were:

"The individual is of supreme importance.

"The spirit of the people is the strength of our nation.

"America does not prosper unless all Americans prosper.

"Government must have a heart as well as a head.

"Courage in principle, cooperation in practice makes freedom positive.

"To stay free, we must stay strong.

"Under God, we espouse the cause of freedom and justice and peace for all peoples."

The platform itself would pledge a reduction in taxes, a balanced budget, a cut in government expenditures, the maintenance of a "sound" dollar, and the advancement of economic growth.

It also promised to keep the nation strong in the face of possible aggression.

Holds Out On Nixon

Gov. 17 Nations Back U.S. Suez Plan

LONDON, Aug. 21 (AP)—Seventeen nations lined up today for a U.S. formula to have international control over the Suez Canal. But the Soviet Union threw its weight behind an Indian plan to keep the canal control in Egypt's hands.

The score was: 17 nations, including the United States, for the American plan; four for the Indian plan; one uncommitted.

Soviet Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov told the 22-nation conference the U.S. plan is designed "to remove the canal from the sovereignty, ownership and operation of Egypt, master of the canal." He charged an attempt to impose "a modernized form of colonialism on Egypt."

Russia Sees U.S. Plan Rejected

Shepilov teamed with V. K. Krishna Menon of India in predicting Egypt's President Nasser never would accept the plan Secretary of State Dulles drafted. Ceylon and Indonesia went along with them. Spain remained uncommitted and talked of offering a new compromise plan.

But Pakistan, Turkey, Iran and Ethiopia—all members of the Arab-African-Asian bloc — swung around to the U.S. plan for international control after Dulles accepted their minor amendments stressing Egyptian sovereignty.

The Western Big Three, in an intensive round of private last-minute talks, offered new oral assurance to them that emphasis in the quest for a settlement of the Suez crisis would be on peaceful negotiations.

Japan Backs West's Proposal

Japan, in a surprise shift, joined the Dulles' plan. The three Scandinavian countries—among the canal's biggest users—rallied behind the amended American plan.

Spain, with an eye on neighboring British-held Gibraltar and its straits, hewd off, and its foreign minister consulted Madrid on another compromise plan he said he would offer tomorrow.

Egypt and Greece boycotted the parley.

3 Feared Dead In Crash Of Huge Air Force Plane

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Aug. 21 (AP)—A giant Air Force transport plane with six men aboard crashed and burned tonight after its captain flew it from over a congested area to a vacant plot of land.

The fate of three men was undetermined. Three were injured and placed in the hospital at Palm Beach Air Force Base.

A base spokesman said the pilot radioed the tower that he was facing an emergency and that he was heading for the open area. The plane crashed from a low altitude, burned and blew up. It was in flight over the city.

A base spokesman said the plane, a C124 Globemaster, was operating out of the West Palm Beach base on a local training flight.

It crashed more than half a mile from the end of the runway. A tremendous explosion followed and fire consumed everything except the tail assembly which was blown clear, and the metal parts.

Several witnesses saw the plane struggling—and failing—to reach the runway.

Richard W. Owen, a contractor, said he saw the low-flying plane which "appeared to be dragging in the air with its tail down."

Three Men, Two Kittens Span Atlantic On Log Raft

FALMOUTH, England, Aug. 21 (AP)—Three devil-may-care Frenchmen and two kittens landed here tired but triumphant today after drifting 3,000 miles across the Atlantic on a long raft. It took them 89 days.

Henri Beaudout, 29, their leader, said they had encountered waves 35 feet high, depended on rain water to quench their thirst and caught fish to survive after their food supply ran out a month ago.

"We are crazy Frenchmen, yes?" Beaudout shouted as they were towed into this port in Cornwall aboard their raft L'Egare II. The name means "The Lost One."

But there was nothing crazy in what they did after coming asbore.

They ate hearty breakfasts of bacon and eggs. They bathed and got their hair cut and their beards trimmed.

Police and immigrations officials questioned them — and then they climbed into a bed for the first time since they left Halifax, N.S., on May 24.

Beaudout's companions were Gaston Vanackere, 31, and Marc Modena, 27. Beaudout, married, is a Canadian citizen. Vanackers and Modena, single, are waiting to become Canadian citizens. All live in Montreal.

Vanackere said the kittens "cheered us up whenever we felt a little depressed."

Their raft measured 13 by 17 feet, was made of cedar logs tied together with rope and had a wooden cabin with a canvas cover. It carried a little sail.

"We have done what we set out to do," explained Vanackere, "which was to allow the Gulf Stream to carry us across the Atlantic using the minimum of sail."

Hoover Urges Ringing Party Declaration

Appeals For Strong Statement To Guide Nation Past Dangers

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 21 (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover today called on Republicans to set forth a new "declaration of principles of American life" to keep the nation free and strong.

Great documents of the past "need a forceful annex stating the principles which must guide our country amid the forces which beset us in these times," Hoover said in a speech prepared for the Republican National Convention.

The 82-year-old Hoover proposed a "resounding" declaration instead of the "traditional" party platform. And the convention was prepared to follow through, in part at least.

"Declaration Of Faith"

Its Platform Committee was set to present a platform containing planks with the usual labels but introduced by a "Declaration of Faith."

The "Declaration of Faith" was composed in advance by the convention's platform committee.

Drafted as the preamble to a document keyed mainly to current issues, the committee's "declaration" was marked by such statements of principle as these:

"Our government was created by the people for all the people, and it must serve no less a purpose."

"We hold that the major world issue today is whether government shall be the servant or the master of men."

"We hold that the Bill of Rights is the sacred foundation of personal liberty."

Ex-President's Appeal

Hoover appealed for a statement along those lines with these words:

"Cannot this centennial convention of the Republican party, whose whole background has been the preservation of the freedom of men, make such a declaration?

"If you face the truth that we are in a critical battle to safeguard our nation and civilization which, under God, have brought to us a life of liberty, then you will be guided step by step to restore the foundations of right thinking, of morals and faith throughout the world.

"Then you will issue as pure a note in as full a tone as that call to arms given by your political ancestors at your convention of 100 years ago — that America shall safeguard the freedom of men."

Stassen Urges Delegates Defer Stand On Nixon

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 21 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen urged Republican convention delegates today to refrain from taking a stand on a vice - presidential nominee until President Eisenhower has had a chance to explore the situation first-hand.

As Eisenhower winged his way here, Stassen obviously was hoping for some word from the President that would rekindle his apparently fading campaign to drop Vice President Nixon from the GOP ticket.

Stassen, in a talk to the Minnesota delegation, said that President Eisenhower should be given a chance to confer with leaders of the state delegations before minds were made up on a vice-presidential candidate.

He said that, at whatever cost to himself, he felt he had managed "to keep the door open a crack," and that it was completely within the province of the President and the delegates "to make whatever decision is good for Ameica."

Stassen, former governor of Minnesota and now on leave as the President's disarmament adviser, pledged that whatever the decision is, "it will have my whole-hearted support."

Sen. Lehman, 78, Says He Will Not Seek Reelection

NEW YORK, Aug. 21 (AP)—Sen. Herbert H. Lehman (D-NY), one of the great liberal voices of the Democratic party for a generation, announced today he will not seek re-election in November.

At the age of 78, he said, he is not up to the rigors of another campaign. It is known, too, that his family wanted him to retire.

However, Lehman said he would campaign actively in and beyond New York for Democratic presidential nominee Adlai E. Stevenson, whom he helped nominate at the Chicago convention last week.

Lehman has been in the Senate since 1949.

Open Race Indicated

His announcement presaged a wide open race in November for his Senate post. Lehman said his own choice as a successor is Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City, son of the late senator whom Lehman succeeded in Washington.

Wagner earlier in the day had repeated his wish to remain as mayor. However, it seemed apparent he could be persuaded to seek Lehman's seat if the party wants him as its candidate.

On the Republican side, State Atty. Gen. Jacob K. Javits is willing to run. So is J. Raymond McGovern, state comptroller under former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

Dewey's Entry Speculated

There has been increasing speculation that either Dewey or Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr., would make the race if President Eisenhower were to urge one or the other to do so.

Lehman's last public appearance before today's announcement was on the floor of the Democratic convention last week in Chicago. He vainly sought to stiffen the party's stand on racial desegregation. His defeat, he said, was not a factor in his retirement announcement.

Fla. NAACP Probe Bill Becomes Law

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. Aug. 21 (AP)—Gov. Leroy Collins today allowed to become law without his signature a bill setting up a legislative committee aimed at, sponsors said, investigation of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

Collins said the language of the bill was broad enough to permit an investigation also of the Ku Klux Klan and that he would refer to the committee "many inquiries I am receiving regarding the Ku Klux Klan."

The bill, passed by the recent special legislative session, gave the committee a $50,000 appropriation and subpoena powers for its investigations.

The investigation bill does not mention the NAACP by name but its sponsors said that was the primary objective.

Convention Program

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 21 (AP)—Here is the program for Wednesday's session of the Republican National Convention:

Opens 3:30 p.m., PDT (6:30 p.m. EDT) with music, parade of Young Republicans, call to order, presentation of colors, pledge of allegiance, national anthem and invocation.

Election of national committee.

Address—Thomas E. Dwey of New York.

Roll call of states to nominate for President and to ballot.

Roll call of states to nominate for Vice President and to ballot.

Nixon Assured California Votes

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 21 (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon won renomination backing today from the 70-vote California delegation to the Republican National Convention.

The delegates agreed to cast their votes for Nixon as a unit despite the opposition of California Gov. Goodwin J. Knight, who contended they should wait for a specific endorsement from President Eisenhower.

In the interest of party harmony, Knight did not ask for a vote against endorsing Nixon but urged his followers to abstain from voting in the caucus. The resolution favoring Nixon was approved by a loud voice vote.

Nixon continued to pick up support from other states.

Seven state delegations created a traffic jam in the long narrow hallway of Nixon's 11th floor Mark Hopkins Hotel suite when they filed in one by one to tell him of their support.

The delegations calling on him were New Hampshire, Arkansas, Oregon, South Carolina, Colorado, Washington and Arizona.

Adlai Will Meet Party Workers On Unique Tour

LIBERTYVILLE, Ill., Aug. 21 (AP) — Adlai Stevenson announced tonight he will leave next week on a flying trip into all regions of the country to lay the groundwork for the "greatest grass roots campaign of all time."

Sen. Estes Kefauver, his vice-presidential running mate, will accompany the Democratic presidential nominee on a unique pre-campaign trip getting underway Aug. 27 in New Mexico. The meeting at Santa Fe, N. M., is for Democratic party workers from New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma, Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, Arkansas and Arizona.

Northwest Conference

They meet Aug. 29, at Sioux City, Iowa, with workers from Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

The schedule takes the two candidates into Knoxville, Tenn., Aug. 30, for a meeting with the Democratic leaders of Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama, Louisiana, Florida, Kentucky, Mississippi, South Carolina, North Carolina and Virginia.

Labor Day Speech Planned

In Chicago, Aug. 31 there will be a meeting for Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Missouri and Ohio.

Three other meetings covering other sections of the country will be announced shortly.

Stevenson made the announcement simultaneously with another announcement that he will make a major campaign address Labor Day, Sept. 3, at Detroit under the auspices of the Detroit and Wayne County Federation of Labor and the Wayne County CIO Council.

Train Plows Into Derailed Streamliner; No One Killed

DURANT, Iowa, Aug. 21 (AP)— A speeding Rock Island Rocket passenger train was derailed here early today, then was hit by another train heading in the opposite direction.

Almost miraculously, there were no deaths or serious injuries among the estimated 380 passengers and crew members aboard the two trains. Many were bruised and shaken up but none required hospitalization.

J. S. Orlomoski of Davenport, division superintendent of the Rock Island Railroad, said he believed the derailment may have been caused by a locked traction motor on the diesel unit of the streamliner.

The Rocket, speeding at 68 miles an hour according to engineer Frank Hughes, was en route from Denver to Chicago.

The derailment hurled the center portion of the 16-car train into a ditch south of the tracks.

All but the last four coaches of the Rocket left the rails, but all stayed upright.

The dining car, however, swiveled sideways, across the tracks on which a local mail and express train was approaching.

R. J. Mill, of Moline, Ill., engineer of the mail train, said he was traveling about 47 miles an hour when he saw the block signal ahead flash red. He said he immediately applied full emergency brakes.

"All I saw was a bunch of steam and clouds of dust on the track and I continued to hold the train in full emergency braking," Mill said. The local hit the dining car and plunged off the rails.

Railroad officials said the dining car was the only unoccupied car on the Rocket.

Eisenhower's Renomination Set For Today

Stassen, Opposing Nixon, Asks Chance To Address Party

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 21 (AP)—President Eisenhower landed at San Francisco International Airport at 6:53 p.m. PDT tonight to be on the scene of the Republican National Convention.

The President's plane, the Columbine III, landed 9 hours and 37 minutes after leaving Washington.

Waiting at the airport to greet the President were Vice President Nixon and other high officials of the convention and the GOP administration.

Among the latter was Harold E. Stassen, Eisenhower's special assistant for disarmament who has conducted a lone and evidently fruitless job to persuade the convention to dump-Nixon and give the President another running mate.

Chief of Police Frank Ahern estimated the crowd at the airport at between 5,000 and 6,000.

Republicans Prepare To Rename Ike, Nixon

COW PALACE, San Francisco, Aug. 21 (AP)—President Eisenhower winged westward tonight to a Republican National Convention spinning through the processes of adopting a platform and renominating him for the White House.

And, from Herbert Hoover the Republican legions heard a call that they bring forth here a "declaration of principles" capable of rekindling in every American heart a "burning love for the freedom of man."

From the eminence of his 82 years, the former President warned:

"Today the greatest issue in America and all mankind is the encroachment of government to master our lives."

Speaking just in advance of action on a platform with a preamble containing a party "declaration of faith," Hoover avoided a strictly partisan, strictly political tone. He also avoided mixing directly in the matter of candidate picking.

Selecting the nominees is tomorrow's business for Republicans who will hold Eisenhower's hand triumphantly aloft and proclaim him once more their candidate for president.

And, it is only a trace less certain the party will follow through by again choosing Vice President Nixon as a running mate.

Stassen Bids For Floor

Nixon gathered in today the backing of his own California delegation, if not the complete devotion of all its members.

Harold E. Stassen, has been spearheading what has been pretty much a one-man drive to ditch Nixon.

Tonight, Stassen bid for a chance to address the convention tomorrow. He did not disclose what he plans to say—whether he will carry on his futile anti-Nixon campaign or bring it to an end in the forum of the convention itself.

Stassen wrote a letter to permanent Chairman Joseph W. Martin Jr., asking for the floor. Martin said he would put the request up to the convention itself. He said that to grant it would require unanimous consent of the delegates.

Stassen had spent the day pleading with convention delegates not to make up their minds to support Nixon until Eisenhower got here and had had a chance to look the situation over personally.

Ike's Roll Uncertain

What role Eisenhower would play, if any, in the selection of a running mate was highly uncertain. There were plenty of rumors around to pick from.

Among them were these contradictory reports:

That Eisenhower would give a special, clear-cut endorsement to Nixon.

That he would keep hands off the vice-presidential situation and let it be known anybody the delegates wanted would be all right with him.

Martin, taking over the gavel for the fifth time as chairman of a Republican convention, predicted the Republicans can and will march on to victory in November.

Martin, long-time congressman from Massachusetts and Republican leader in the House, didn't pass up the chance to swing on the Democrats, either. He fired away at what he said were "corruption and communism" and "raw deals" under "the leadership of the past."

Medallion For Herbert Hoover

Sen. Lehman, 78, Says He Will Not Seek Reelection

NEW YORK, Aug. 21 (AP)—Sen. Herbert H. Lehman (D-NY), one of the great liberal voices of the Democratic party for a generation, announced today he will not seek re-election in November.

At the age of 78, he said, he is not up to the rigors of another campaign. It is known, too, that his family wanted him to retire.

However, Lehman said he would campaign actively in and beyond New York for Democratic presidential nominee Adlai E. Stevenson, whom he helped nominate at the Chicago convention last week.

Lehman has been in the Senate since 1949.

Open Race Indicated

His announcement presaged a wide open race in November for his Senate post. Lehman said his own choice as a successor is Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City, son of the late senator whom Lehman succeeded in Washington.

Wagner earlier in the day had repeated his wish to remain as mayor. However, it seemed apparent he could be persuaded to seek Lehman's seat if the party wants him as its candidate.

On the Republican side, State Atty. Gen. Jacob K. Javits is willing to run. So is J. Raymond McGovern, state comptroller under former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

Dewey's Entry Speculated

There has been increasing speculation that either Dewey or Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr., would make the race if President Eisenhower were to urge one or the other to do so.

Lehman's last public appearance before today's announcement was on the floor of the Democratic convention last week in Chicago. He vainly sought to stiffen the party's stand on racial desegregation. His defeat, he said, was not a factor in his retirement announcement.

Fla. NAACP Probe Bill Becomes Law

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. Aug. 21 (AP)—Gov. Leroy Collins today allowed to become law without his signature a bill setting up a legislative committee aimed at, sponsors said, investigation of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

Collins said the language of the bill was broad enough to permit an investigation also of the Ku Klux Klan and that he would refer to the committee "many inquiries I am receiving regarding the Ku Klux Klan."

The bill, passed by the recent special legislative session, gave the committee a $50,000 appropriation and subpoena powers for its investigations.

The investigation bill does not mention the NAACP by name but its sponsors said that was the primary objective.

Nixon Assured California Votes

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 21 (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon won renomination backing today from the 70-vote California delegation to the Republican National Convention.

The delegates agreed to cast their votes for Nixon as a unit despite the opposition of California Gov. Goodwin J. Knight, who contended they should wait for a specific endorsement from President Eisenhower.

In the interest of party harmony, Knight did not ask for a vote against endorsing Nixon but urged his followers to abstain from voting in the caucus. The resolution favoring Nixon was approved by a loud voice vote.

Nixon continued to pick up support from other states.

Seven state delegations created a traffic jam in the long narrow hallway of Nixon's 11th floor Mark Hopkins Hotel suite when they filed in one by one to tell him of their support.

The delegations calling on him were New Hampshire, Arkansas, Oregon, South Carolina, Colorado, Washington and Arizona.

Adlai Will Meet Party Workers On Unique Tour

LIBERTYVILLE, Ill., Aug. 21 (AP) — Adlai Stevenson announced tonight he will leave next week on a flying trip into all regions of the country to lay the groundwork for the "greatest grass roots campaign of all time."

Sen. Estes Kefauver, his vice-presidential running mate, will accompany the Democratic presidential nominee on a unique pre-campaign trip getting underway Aug. 27 in New Mexico. The meeting at Santa Fe, N. M., is for Democratic party workers from New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma, Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, Arkansas and Arizona.

Northwest Conference

They meet Aug. 29, at Sioux City, Iowa, with workers from Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

The schedule takes the two candidates into Knoxville, Tenn., Aug. 30, for a meeting with the Democratic leaders of Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama, Louisiana, Florida, Kentucky, Mississippi, South Carolina, North Carolina and Virginia.

Labor Day Speech Planned

In Chicago, Aug. 31 there will be a meeting for Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Missouri and Ohio.

Three other meetings covering other sections of the country will be announced shortly.

Stevenson made the announcement simultaneously with another announcement that he will make a major campaign address Labor Day, Sept. 3, at Detroit under the auspices of the Detroit and Wayne County Federation of Labor and the Wayne County CIO Council.

Train Plows Into Derailed Streamliner; No One Killed

DURANT, Iowa, Aug. 21 (AP)— A speeding Rock Island Rocket passenger train was derailed here early today, then was hit by another train heading in the opposite direction.

Almost miraculously, there were no deaths or serious injuries among the estimated 380 passengers and crew members aboard the two trains. Many were bruised and shaken up but none required hospitalization.

J. S. Orlomoski of Davenport, division superintendent of the Rock Island Railroad, said he believed the derailment may have been caused by a locked traction motor on the diesel unit of the streamliner.

The Rocket, speeding at 68 miles an hour according to engineer Frank Hughes, was en route from Denver to Chicago.

The derailment hurled the center portion of the 16-car train into a ditch south of the tracks.

All but the last four coaches of the Rocket left the rails, but all stayed upright.

The dining car, however, swiveled sideways, across the tracks on which a local mail and express train was approaching.

R. J. Mill, of Moline, Ill., engineer of the mail train, said he was traveling about 47 miles an hour when he saw the block signal ahead flash red. He said he immediately applied full emergency brakes.

"All I saw was a bunch of steam and clouds of dust on the track and I continued to hold the train in full emergency braking," Mill said. The local hit the dining car and plunged off the rails.

Railroad officials said the dining car was the only unoccupied car on the Rocket.

Eisenhower's Renomination Set For Today

Stassen, Opposing Nixon, Asks Chance To Address Party

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 21 (AP)—President Eisenhower landed at San Francisco International Airport at 6:53 p.m. PDT tonight to be on the scene of the Republican National Convention.

The President's plane, the Columbine III, landed 9 hours and 37 minutes after leaving Washington.

Waiting at the airport to greet the President were Vice President Nixon and other high officials of the convention and the GOP administration.

Among the latter was Harold E. Stassen, Eisenhower's special assistant for disarmament who has conducted a lone and evidently fruitless job to persuade the convention to dump-Nixon and give the President another running mate.

Chief of Police Frank Ahern estimated the crowd at the airport at between 5,000 and 6,000.

Republicans Prepare To Rename Ike, Nixon

COW PALACE, San Francisco, Aug. 21 (AP)—President Eisenhower winged westward tonight to a Republican National Convention spinning through the processes of adopting a platform and renominating him for the White House.

And, from Herbert Hoover the Republican legions heard a call that they bring forth here a "declaration of principles" capable of rekindling in every American heart a "burning love for the freedom of man."

From the eminence of his 82 years, the former President warned:

"Today the greatest issue in America and all mankind is the encroachment of government to master our lives."

Speaking just in advance of action on a platform with a preamble containing a party "declaration of faith," Hoover avoided a strictly partisan, strictly political tone. He also avoided mixing directly in the matter of candidate picking.

Selecting the nominees is tomorrow's business for Republicans who will hold Eisenhower's hand triumphantly aloft and proclaim him once more their candidate for president.

And, it is only a trace less certain the party will follow through by again choosing Vice President Nixon as a running mate.

Stassen Bids For Floor

Nixon gathered in today the backing of his own California delegation, if not the complete devotion of all its members.

Harold E. Stassen, has been spearheading what has been pretty much a one-man drive to ditch Nixon.

Tonight, Stassen bid for a chance to address the convention tomorrow. He did not disclose what he plans to say—whether he will carry on his futile anti-Nixon campaign or bring it to an end in the forum of the convention itself.

Stassen wrote a letter to permanent Chairman Joseph W. Martin Jr., asking for the floor. Martin said he would put the request up to the convention itself. He said that to grant it would require unanimous consent of the delegates.

Stassen had spent the day pleading with convention delegates not to make up their minds to support Nixon until Eisenhower got here and had had a chance to look the situation over personally.

Ike's Roll Uncertain

What role Eisenhower would play, if any, in the selection of a running mate was highly uncertain. There were plenty of rumors around to pick from.

Among them were these contradictory reports:

That Eisenhower would give a special, clear-cut endorsement to Nixon.

That he would keep hands off the vice-presidential situation and let it be known anybody the delegates wanted would be all right with him.

Martin, taking over the gavel for the fifth time as chairman of a Republican convention, predicted the Republicans can and will march on to victory in November.

Martin, long-time congressman from Massachusetts and Republican leader in the House, didn't pass up the chance to swing on the Democrats, either. He fired away at what he said were "corruption and communism" and "raw deals" under "the leadership of the past."

Adlai Charges GOP Spokesmen Confuse "Facts, Falsehood"

LIBERTYVILLE, Ill., Aug. 21 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson accused the Republican administration today of "smug, self-righteous complacency" and its spokesmen of confusing "facts and falsehood."

He did so from his farm home near Libertyville where he worked to perfect an organizational setup for a campaign which will find him talking from dawn to midnight in critical states.

Under the setup, Clayton Fritchey, former Cleveland and New Orleans newspaper executive, will serve as his top press secretary.

Stevenson's own New York advertising experts moved out to the farm, meanwhile, to begin work on details for a promotion campaign covering his own and other television appearances, both for major addresses and for 89 five-minute spot TV programs.

In the advertising group were Eugene H. Kummel, vice president of Norman, Craig and Kummel, Inc., which is handling the Democratic advertising campaign.

George Hall, director of public relations for the Stevenson nomination campaign, is expected to continue in that role. He told reporters that Fritchey, deputy Democratic National chairman, and guiding genius of the party publication, Democratic Digest, will be named press secretary in full charge of news operations.

Roger Tubby, now Stevenson's press secretary, likely will continue in the new setup in association with Fritchey.

Stevenson himself told newsmen he hoped to announce his "table of organization" possibly Thursday, and get it functioning before he moves his headquarters to Washington in about a week. The Democratic presidential nominee said so at a news conference in which he called Washington Gov. Arthur Langlie's keynote address to the GOP National Convention "another example of the administration's smug, self - righteous complacency."

He said the keynote was that "all is well, and God is on our side."

Scotland Yard Probing Deaths Of 300 Women

EASTBOURNE, England, Aug. 21 (AP)—Scotland Yard disclosed today it has started a full-scale inquiry into the deaths of nearly 300 rich old ladies in this sedate seaside resort over the past 20 years.

Richard Walker, the town's constable, wasn't saying much, but admitted a letter from a townswoman sent him hotfooting to London for talks with Scotland Yard.

Rumors that everything wasn't quite right about the deaths started in this prosperous resort town some months back.

These rumors centered on the sudden deaths of a number of women—and the way they had left their money and the people who benefited from the insurance.

Four weeks ago Walker ordered an investigation into the death of a wealthy widow. Four days later he announced the investigation was complete. But results were not made public.

Then came a move that galvanized the town. Walker received a letter that informants said allegedly linked the deaths of 12 women. It was that letter that sent him hurrying to London.

As a result, Superintendent Herbert Hannam of Scotland Yard's murder squad — also an expert on forgery—was appointed to head up the inquiry.

Squads of detectives called at London's Somerset House—storehouse of wills—to take away copies of testaments left by 300 Eastbourne women over the last 20 years.

They were ordered to look for coincidences in names of legatees.

Police said the inquiry will take up to a month to complete.

Miss Bergman Won't Appear On TV Show

NEW YORK, Aug. 21 (AP)—Ed Sullivan said today Ingrid Bergman will not appear on his television show.

Last July 17, Sullivan announced he had signed the actress for an October or November appearance on his CBS show.

Today, CBS issued this brief statement:

"Ed Sullivan announced today that he had been unable to work out arrangements for the appearance of Miss Bergman on his program and was abandoning any further efforts to secure her services."

Earl Wilson, New York Post columnist, today quoted Miss Bergman as writing from London:

"I don't understand why he (Sullivan) ever brought the question up, as I told him when he was here that I had no intention of doing a live show. I simply don't have the time."

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 21 (AP)—The last of 19 streetcars which have been hauling passengers around this capital for 54 years will be retired by the end of this month, the Electric Transport Service announces. City officials, newsmen and artists are planning a farewell party to conduct the last one to the company's junking yard.

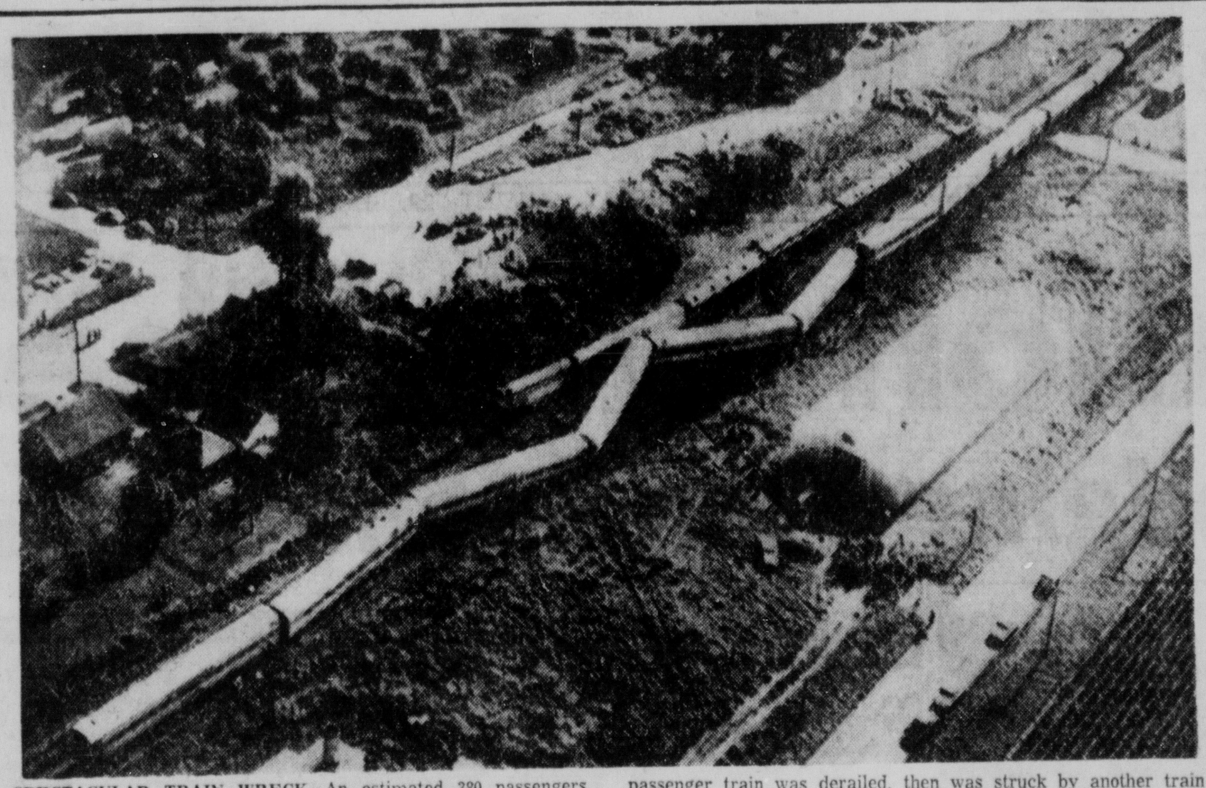
HELSINKI, Aug. 21 (AP)—Soviet President Klementi Voroshilov arrived in Helsinki by train today on a state visit.



SPECTACULAR TRAIN WRECK—An estimated 380 passengers and crew members escaped serious injury in a spectacular train wreck at Durant, Iowa, yesterday. A speeding Rock Island Rocket passenger train was derailed, then was struck by another train heading in the opposite direction. Women Of GOP Told They Can Decide Election

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 21 (AP)—The women with the "Ike" rhinestone pins, surrounded by pink flowers, chatting at breakfasts and luncheons, were told today to get out and work.

"In our frail hands—yet very powerful hands—lies the future," Rep. Marguerite Stitt Church of Illinois told them at breakfast.

At lunch they were told that they outnumber the men voters. "Use your privilege of voting, and you can win the election," said John Reed Kilpatrick, national chairman of Citizens for Eisenhower.

Several hundred women who attended a Republican "breakfast briefing" saw pink elephants five feet tall. The elephants were made of flowers. Seven-foot high cones of pink dahlias showered with pink satin ribbons stood around.

Pink is a favorite color of Mamie Eisenhower.

"We're here at this convention to nominate the winning president and vice president," said Miss Bertha S. Adkins, in charge of women's activities for the Republican National Committee.

But Miss Adkins cautioned the women they had to get out and work to assure Republican victory.

Hoover Is Honored

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 21 (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover was awarded a citation by the California Republican Assembly today for "his outstanding service to the nation and his leadership, honesty, high principles, loyalty and devotion to the American way of life."

Republican Confab Could Use Amusement Director

COW PALACE, San Francisco, Aug. 21 (AP)—What this Republican National Convention needs isn't a political writer but an amusement editor.

Every time you look up some celebrated chick—or maybe it's a cockerel or even an old rooster—is perched in front of a microphone, pouring out song or sentiment.

Ethel Merman, Jane Powell, John Charles Thomas, Irene Dunne.

Tomorrow and Thursday come Patrice Munsel, Irving Berlin, Allan Jones, Nat "King" Cole and another generous helping of the large, economy size John Charles Thomas.

Other conventions, of course, have fetched in well-known entertainers.

Only last week the Democrats caged such song birds as Frank Sinatra, Mahalia Jackson and Richard Tucker. But there's a lot to the Republican boast that no other convention has been quite like this one.

So far a couple of actors have spent more time up front, and commanded more attention, than any of the politicians.

Instead of having the presiding officer call the meeting to order, Wendell Corey has acted as master of ceremonies to put the show on the road.

And instead of doing as the Democrats did, with stern old Sam Rayburn deciding when he would tolerate music and how much, the Republicans have George Murphy.

It's not certain how much of Murphy gets through to the tiny television screen, but if the networks are passing up George, they are missing one of the most athletic performances of the year.

Murphy is the stage director, and he cues in the orchestra, located on a small peak at the rear of the hall.

In this electronic age, Murphy has fallen back on a system of communication that an American Indian would have discarded as too primitive.

Example: As a speaker nears the end of his speech, Murphy is on his feet, waving his arms in great circular motions as he gets ready to give the boys in the band the long-distance downbeat.

Well, he entertains the press section anyway, and his performance is a reminder that the Cow Palace not only goes in for beef but for pork. If that isn't ham, what is it?

Naturally the Republicans face quite a problem.

Snow, Rain Fall Over Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 21 (AP) — Snow falling over Los Angeles on an August day?

That's right. The Weather Bureau says snow and rain dropped from odd-looking clouds over the city this morning. But none of it reached the ground.

The clouds, resembling giant parachutes, floated at an elevation of 18,000 feet with long streamers trailing below. High moisture with a layer of dry air underneath produced the rain and snow. The temperatures was about 20 degrees above zero up there. Down here it was 70.

Graham Denies He "Coached" Clement

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Aug. 21 (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham said today he had "nothing whatever" to do with the writing of the keynote speeches of the Democratic and Republican national conventions.

Graham said in a statement he had received over 350 letters and telegrams from people over the country suggesting that he had contributed to the writing of both speeches and criticizing him for "coaching" Gov. Frank Clement of Tennessee in the delivery of the latter's speech at the Democratic National Convention in Chicago last week.

One Of 12 Members Of Family Stricken With Polio Succumbs

Young Walsh had been brought to the University of Illinois Research and Educational Hospital Dec. 28, 1955. He was stricken with polio Sept. 5 and had been treated in Rockford before being moved to Chicago.

Edward's parents, Keron and Anne Walsh, and nine brothers and sisters suffered attacks of polio. Four children in the family were not afflicted.

One brother, David, 18, is still hospitalized. A sister, Rosellen, 6, is undergoing therapy, but all other members of the family have recovered.

New U.S. Air Speed Record Reported

MOJAVE, Calif., Aug. 21 (AP)—A Navy F8U-1 Crusader jet plane flashed across the Mojave Desert today reportedly averaging between 1,000 and 1,050 miles an hour to set a new American record, the Los Angeles Times said tonight.

The plane, a Chance Vought, was piloted by Cmdr. Robert W. (Duke) Windsor, 37.

BERLIN, Aug. 21 (AP)—Bishop Wilhelm Weskamm, 65, titular head of the Roman Catholic Church in Berlin and Communist East Germany, died here tonight.

Convention Rule Provides Roll Call

COW PALACE, San Francisco, Aug. 21 (AP)—The Republican National Convention today adopted a rule that would seem to bar either President Eisenhower or Vice President Nixon from being renominated by acclamation.

"In making the nominations for president and vice president and voting thereon," the rule says, "in no case shall the call of the roll be dispensed with."

The words "and voting thereon" were inserted in the rules used in the last convention.

It would be possible to suspend the rules, if agreed to by two-thirds of the delegates. But apparently the rules change was put in to make sure that the roll call of all the states and territories would be completed.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 21 (AP) — Snow falling over Los Angeles on an August day?

That's right. The Weather Bureau says snow and rain dropped from odd-looking clouds over the city this morning. But none of it reached the ground.

The clouds, resembling giant parachutes, floated at an elevation of 18,000 feet with long streamers trailing below. High moisture with a layer of dry air underneath produced the rain and snow. The temperatures was about 20 degrees above zero up there. Down here it was 70.

One Of 12 Members Of Family Stricken With Polio Succumbs

Young Walsh had been brought to the University of Illinois Research and Educational Hospital Dec. 28, 1955. He was stricken with polio Sept. 5 and had been treated in Rockford before being moved to Chicago.

Edward's parents, Keron and Anne Walsh, and nine brothers and sisters suffered attacks of polio. Four children in the family were not afflicted.

One brother, David, 18, is still hospitalized. A sister, Rosellen, 6, is undergoing therapy, but all other members of the family have recovered.

Convention Rule Provides Roll Call

COW PALACE, San Francisco, Aug. 21 (AP)—The Republican National Convention today adopted a rule that would seem to bar either President Eisenhower or Vice President Nixon from being renominated by acclamation.

"In making the nominations for president and vice president and voting thereon," the rule says, "in no case shall the call of the roll be dispensed with."

The words "and voting thereon" were inserted in the rules used in the last convention.

It would be possible to suspend the rules, if agreed to by two-thirds of the delegates. But apparently the rules change was put in to make sure that the roll call of all the states and territories would be completed.

Election Board Eliminates 70 Polling Place Workers

An additional 70 polling place workers will be eliminated prior to the next election in November, according to William A. Wilson, president of the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors.

Wilson said the experience of the primary election in May revealed that there were too many workers at all polling places, except in Districts 1, 2 and 3. These three districts have only one voting machine and under law the number of polling officials cannot be reduced below the present number of four to a machine.

In the other districts, which are in the more populous sections, there are two voting machines to a polling place and two workers can be eliminated. There will be 35 Democrats and 35 Republicans who will lose out in the shuffle, Wilson said.

This will be the second cut in polling place personnel. When voting machines were purchased and first used in the primary last May the number of workers was cut. Wilson said the use of voting machines made unnecessary the number of people who had formerly conducted the elections on paper ballots.

The added saving of $1,540 each election and primary day will help defray the cost of the machines. The voting devices were bought for approximately $148,000 last December.

Both the Democratic and Republican committees of Allegany gany County were notified of the proposed elimination of the 70 polling place workers. The board asked them to decide which workers should be cut from the payroll.

The Democratic unit has not yet given its decision, but it is reported that the Republican group was against the plan. The Election Board at its meeting Monday decided to go ahead with its plan to cut the personnel.

Foley Here Campaigning For Congress

John R. Foley, 38-year-old Montgomery countian, toured Allegany County Monday in the interests of his race as the Democratic candidate for Congress from the Sixth Maryland District in November. He is opposing Rep. DeWitt Hyde, incumbent Republican.

Foley, married and the father of four children, is an attorney and a judge of the Orphans Court in his home county. He served four and half years in the Army, rising to the rank of major after entering service as a private. More than half his Army service was in the South Pacific campaigns of New Guinea and the Philippines.

He conferred with Edward J. Ryan, local attorney and Hyde's opponent in 1954, and Thomas B. Finan, chairman of the Allegany County Democratic Committee. Ryan is chairman of the advisory committee for Foley's campaign.

Foley served more than five years as associate general counsel for the American Federation of Labor and has strong backing among labor sources.

On Labor Day he will be in Cumberland and on September 4, 5 and 6 he plans to make a house-to-house canvass of homes of the county to further his candidacy.

New Procedure Used To Obtain Highway Lands

A new procedure under which the State Roads Commission acquires needed rights of way for proposed highway construction and improvements was used in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday for the first time.

Joseph D. Buscher, special assistant attorney general for the SRC, came here to file petitions in court for the acquisition of 14 properties along U. S. Route 220 from Rawlings south toward McCoole which are needed for widening of the highway.

A check for $17,260 was deposited by the state with Clerk of Court Joseph E. Boden to cover the estimated value of the land to be taken by the state. Most of the properties are small individual tracts.

Buscher said the new procedure will speed up acquisition of the land and at the same time prevent speculation in land values along roadways which are to be improved or in areas where new construction is planned.

The law provides for the naming a Board of Review of three members by the judges of Circuit Court to conduct informal hearings in cases where the property owner feels the price offered is not enough. The decision of the board is not binding and in the event any property owner objects, the case will be handled in court under the former condemnation procedure.

Buscher said another important part of the new law is that the State Roads Commission will not have to make public engineering and appraisal data on land until after the petitions are filed in court for property acquisition for highway work.

This part of the law will prevent any knowledge of proposed routes and improvements by the State Roads Commission and will prevent land speculation.

Buscher explained that formerly someone could determine where a highway project was planned and then purchase a property and erect some building on the tract. The property owner was then in a position to obtain large sums from the state in the sale of the land to the state.

The new law "freezes" the property when petitions are filed in court and anyone who then builds or improves the property does so at his own risk.

Property owners can by-pass the entire procedure by appearing before the clerk of Circuit Court and accepting the money offered by the state for their property.

Two Wills Probated In Orphans Court

Two wills were admitted to probate yesterday in Orphans Court.

The will of Warren H. Printy, 68, who died August 3, named a sister, Mrs. Ida Florence Strong, Westernport, as executrix and beneficiary.

Judge Cracks Down On 12 Teen-Agers Accused Of Burglaries, Other Crimes

LA PLATA, Md., Aug. 21 (AP)—Circuit Judge J. Dudley Digges cracked down yesterday on 12 young teen-agers accused of a score of burglaries and other crimes, sending five to the Maryland Training School for Boys, putting five on probation and continuing the case of another. He dismissed charges against one.

All 12 admitted participation in the crimes, which grossed several thousand in outright theft and property damage.

The youths ranged in age from 12 to 16 years.

The corraling of the boys came about as a result of investigations of about 100 breaking and entering cases in the Potomac Heights-Indian Head area during the past year.

Part of the blame was attributed to a gang known as the Dingos. All 11 of its known members have been in court during the last three months.

Judge Digges had the parents of all 12 youngsters in court. And he called all of them to take the stand. Virtually all said they had no ideas their children were mixed up in the thefts.

Digges asked each to name his or her son's scnool teacher. Only one was able. Only one had been to a Parent-Teachers Association meeting.

All the parents pleaded with the judge to give their boys another chance and let them take the youths home with them.

"They had to become criminals before you decided to become parents," Digges told them.

The youths generally showed an indifference to the proceedings, although all were polite.

One 12-year-old, after admitting he had broken into one house four different times, was asked by Judge Digges if he would steal again.

"That depends on how things work out," the lad answered.

"And if you do, do you know what I'll have to do?" the judge asked.

"Send me away, I guess," he answered matter-of-factly.

The boy's father, put on the stand, told Digges he worked all hours to give his children what they needed and wanted. He said the 12-year-old told him he preferred having the extra things than having his dad home at night.

The father wanted to take the boy back home for another try. The judge agreed to put him on probation, under these conditions:

He cant go out after 6 p. m. unless accompanied by his parents.

He must attend school and get passing marks.

He must not leave his home without permission.

He cannot drive or own a car until he is 21.

Berkeley County Farmer Eligible For FHA Loans

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (AP)—The Agriculture Department today designated Berkeley and Jefferson counties in West Virginia as areas where farmers are eligible for emergency loans from the Farmers Home Administration.

It said the loans may be obtained by farmers who suffered substantial losses to crops, fruit trees and farm property in storms.

The emergency loans are made to finance continued normal operations. Applications for loans are made at county FHA offices.

Only farmers who are unable to obtain credit from other local sources are eligible for the 3 per cent loans.

D'Alesandro Is Quoted As Saying 'We're Going To Dump Tydings'

BALTIMORE, Aug. 21 (AP)—Time magazine, in its edition out tomorrow, reports what it calls an exclusive report of a conversation last week between Baltimore's Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro and an unnamed Maryland delegate concerning the political future of Millard E. Tydings.

The Time article says the conversation, overheard by a Time reporter, took place in a Chicago hotel, during the Democratic National Convention. The article quotes D'Alesandro as saying "we're going to dump Tydings."

D'Alesandro, after reading the article today, declared flatly it was an "outrageous fabrication."

He denied having any conversation along those lines with anyone and pointed to his consistent support of Tydings during Tydings' successful primary fight for the Democratic nomination to the Senate and during his prolonged illness that led to his withdrawal last Sunday.

The magazine, published in New York, gives this account of the conversation:

"Delegate: Tommy, we gotta get rid of Tydings.

"D'Alesandro: Tydings 90 per cent dead is better than (Republican Sen. John Marshall) Butler.

"Delegate: Yeh, but we can't run him from Johns Hopkins.

"D'Alesandro: Why not? The Republicans are running Ike from Walter Reed.

"Delegate: Naw, we gotta have a winner.

"D'Alesandro: We will. We're going to dump Tydings. I'll announce it in a couple of days.

"Delegate: Who is it, Tommy?"

"D'Alesandro: I can't tell you yet, but I will say this. He's a businessman, he's clean, he's never been in politics and he's okay with The (Baltimore) Sun.

"Delegate: Why not you, Tommy?

"D'Alesandro: Hell, no. My boys want jobs. What can I give 'em from the Senate? Just some lousy elevator operators."

D'Alesandro issued this statement:

"The whole article is an outrageous fabrication. No such conversation took place with an unnamed delegate or anyone else.

"Everyone in Maryland knows my position with respect to Millard Tydings. I was one of the first, if not the very first, Tydings supporter in his comeback campaign. I worked day and night for Millard in the recent primary, and I stood by him throughout his illness.

"There can be only one explanation for such an article: It is obvious that Time Magazine is going to do its utmost to support the candidacy of Republican Sen. John Marshall Butler by attempting to sow dissention and ill feeling among Maryland Democrats.

"It is incredible that a supposedly responsible national publication such as Time Magazine would.. stoop to such a trick."

Strike Halts Work On WVU Project

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Aug. 21 (AP)—A strike halted construction work on West Virginia University's new Medical Center for the 11th time today.

The newest walkout was called by Local No. 12 of the Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers Union against the Virginia Engineering Co.

A union spokesman said the grievance involved use of laborers to wash down masonry walls, work which he said should be performed by members of his union.

The union source said efforts were made to reach a settlement over a period of several days, and when none was made, picket lines formed today and halted all construction work.

Sleeping Sickness Outbreak Among Horses Reported

SALISBURY, Md., Aug. 21 (AP)—Eastern Shore farmers were warned today to keep their horses in stables well sprayed to keep away insects, in order to guard the horses against an outbreak of sleeping sickness.

There isn't much else they can do. Available supplies of vaccine have been exhausted. Most suppliers sent all they had to New Jersey, where a similar outbreak of equin encephalomyelitis—sleeping sickness—has been reported.

Dr. Rufus Johnson, a Salisbury veterinarian, said there was "quite an outbreak" among horses on the Shore over the last week end. Cases were reported in Snow Hill, Berlin, Fruitland, Princess Anne and other communities.

Dr. Johnson said he had received a promise of vaccine from a supplier in Richmond, but he was not sure when it would come.

Dr. Johnson said there is no known treatment for the disease, which is carried by blood-sucking insects such as flies, mosquitoes and ticks. The disease can infect humans and other animals as well as horses.

At the outset of the disease the animal first appears dull. The next day he staggers around on wobbly legs. It dies from the brain disease within the next few days.

"Undesirable" Books

CAPETOWN, Aug. 21 (AP)—South Africa's government has issued a new list of books banned for import as "undesirable and provocative." It includes: "Nana" by Emile Zola, "The Wayward Bus" by John Steinbeck, "The Story of Esther Costello" by Nicolas Monsarrat, and the Lion edition of "Frankenstein" by Mary Shelley. Also listed is "Laugh Your Head Off" by Damon Runyon.

Judge Cracks Down On 12 Teen-Agers Accused Of Burglaries, Other Crimes

LA PLATA, Md., Aug. 21 (AP)—Circuit Judge J. Dudley Digges cracked down yesterday on 12 young teen-agers accused of a score of burglaries and other crimes, sending five to the Maryland Training School for Boys, putting five on probation and continuing the case of another. He dismissed charges against one.

All 12 admitted participation in the crimes, which grossed several thousand in outright theft and property damage.

The youths ranged in age from 12 to 16 years.

The corraling of the boys came about as a result of investigations of about 100 breaking and entering cases in the Potomac Heights-Indian Head area during the past year.

Part of the blame was attributed to a gang known as the Dingos. All 11 of its known members have been in court during the last three months.

Judge Digges had the parents of all 12 youngsters in court. And he called all of them to take the stand. Virtually all said they had no ideas their children were mixed up in the thefts.

Digges asked each to name his or her son's school teacher. Only one was able. Only one had been to a Parent-Teachers Association meeting.

All the parents pleaded with the judge to give their boys another chance and let them take the youths home with them.

"They had to become criminals before you decided to become parents," Digges told them.

The youths generally showed an indifference to the proceedings, although all were polite.

One 12-year-old, after admitting he had broken into one house four different times, was asked by Judge Digges if he would steal again.

"That depends on how things work out," the lad answered.

"And if you do, do you know what I'll have to do?" the judge asked.

"Send me away, I guess," he answered matter-of-factly.

The boy's father, put on the stand, told Digges he worked all hours to give his children what they needed and wanted. He said the 12-year-old told him he preferred having the extra things than having his dad home at night.

The father wanted to take the boy back home for another try. The judge agreed to put him on probation, under these conditions:

He cant go out after 6 p. m. unless accompanied by his parents.

He must attend school and get passing marks.

He must not leave his home without permission.

He cannot drive or own a car until he is 21.

Berkeley County Farmer Eligible For FHA Loans

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (AP)—The Agriculture Department today designated Berkeley and Jefferson counties in West Virginia as areas where farmers are eligible for emergency loans from the Farmers Home Administration.

It said the loans may be obtained by farmers who suffered substantial losses to crops, fruit trees and farm property in storms.

The emergency loans are made to finance continued normal operations. Applications for loans are made at county FHA offices.

Only farmers who are unable to obtain credit from other local sources are eligible for the 3 per cent loans.

D'Alesandro Is Quoted As Saying 'We're Going To Dump Tydings'

BALTIMORE, Aug. 21 (AP)—Time magazine, in its edition out tomorrow, reports what it calls an exclusive report of a conversation last week between Baltimore's Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro and an unnamed Maryland delegate concerning the political future of Millard E. Tydings.

The Time article says the conversation, overheard by a Time reporter, took place in a Chicago hotel, during the Democratic National Convention. The article quotes D'Alesandro as saying "we're going to dump Tydings."

D'Alesandro, after reading the article today, declared flatly it was an "outrageous fabrication."

He denied having any conversation along those lines with anyone and pointed to his consistent support of Tydings during Tydings' successful primary fight for the Democratic nomination to the Senate and during his prolonged illness that led to his withdrawal last Sunday.

The magazine, published in New York, gives this account of the conversation:

"Delegate: Tommy, we gotta get rid of Tydings.

"D'Alesandro: Tydings 90 per cent dead is better than (Republican Sen. John Marshall) Butler.

"D'Alesandro: Why not? The Republicans are running Ike from Walter Reed.

"Delegate: Naw, we gotta have a winner.

"D'Alesandro: We will. We're going to dump Tydings. I'll announce it in a couple of days.

"Delegate: Who is it, Tommy?"

"D'Alesandro: I can't tell you yet, but I will say this. He's a businessman, he's clean, he's never been in politics and he's okay with The (Baltimore) Sun.

"Delegate: Why not you, Tommy?

"D'Alesandro: Hell, no. My boys want jobs. What can I give 'em from the Senate? Just some lousy elevator operators."

D'Alesandro issued this statement:

"The whole article is an outrageous fabrication. No such conversation took place with an unnamed delegate or anyone else.

"Everyone in Maryland knows my position with respect to Millard Tydings. I was one of the first, if not the very first, Tydings supporter in his comeback campaign. I worked day and night for Millard in the recent primary, and I stood by him throughout his illness.

"There can be only one explanation for such an article: It is obvious that Time Magazine is going to do its utmost to support the candidacy of Republican Sen. John Marshall Butler by attempting to sow dissention and ill feeling among Maryland Democrats.

"It is incredible that a supposedly responsible national publication such as Time Magazine would stoop to such a trick."

Strike Halts Work On WVU Project

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Aug. 21 (AP)—A strike halted construction work on West Virginia University's new Medical Center for the 11th time today.

The newest walkout was called by Local No. 12 of the Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers Union against the Virginia Engineering Co.

A union spokesman said the grievance involved use of laborers to wash down masonry walls, work which he said should be performed by members of his union.

The union source said efforts were made to reach a settlement over a period of several days, and when none was made, picket lines formed today and halted all construction work.

Sleeping Sickness Outbreak Among Horses Reported

SALISBURY, Md., Aug. 21 (AP)—Eastern Shore farmers were warned today to keep their horses in stables well sprayed to keep away insects, in order to guard the horses against an outbreak of sleeping sickness.

There isn't much else they can do. Available supplies of vaccine have been exhausted. Most suppliers sent all they had to New Jersey, where a similar outbreak of equin encephalomyelitis—sleeping sickness—has been reported.

Dr. Rufus Johnson, a Salisbury veterinarian, said there was "quite an outbreak" among horses on the Shore over the last week end. Cases were reported in Snow Hill, Berlin, Fruitland, Princess Anne and other communities.

Dr. Johnson said he had received a promise of vaccine from a supplier in Richmond, but he was not sure when it would come.

Dr. Johnson said there is no known treatment for the disease, which is carried by blood-sucking insects such as flies, mosquitoes and ticks. The disease can infect humans and other animals as well as horses.

At the outset of the disease the animal first appears dull. The next day he staggers around on wobbly legs. It dies from the brain disease within the next few days.

'Undesirable" Books

CAPETOWN, Aug. 21 (AP)—South Africa's government has issued a new list of books banned for import as "undesirable and provocative." It includes: "Nana" by Emile Zola, "The Wayward Bus" by John Steinbeck, "The Story of Esther Costello" by Nicolas Monsarrat, and the Lion edition of "Frankenstein" by Mary Shelley. Also listed is "Laugh Your Head Off" by Damon Runyon.

Coal Production Shows Increase In Past Year

The production of coal in Maryland, confined to Allegany and Garrett counties, showed an increase in 1955 after being in a downward spiral for nearly 10 years.

The 33d annual report of the Maryland Bureau of Mines released yesterday reveals that the total amounted to 523,909 tons as compared to 445,895 tons for 1954.

Allegany County mines and strip mine operations produced 199,102 tons, an increase over the 174,185 tons for 1954.

Garrett County made a strong gain by jumping from 267,710 in 1954 to 324,804 tons for the past year.

The state's tonnage fell from 1,648,487 tons in 1948 to 713,879 tons in 1949. That was the year that most of the big pit operations on Georges Creek and in the Vindex-Kitzmiller area shut down.

For some of them, the cost of reopening the flooded tunnels was prohibitive. Others were broken up into "family" mines.

	Allegany	Garrett	Total Tons
1955	199,102	324,804	523,909
1954	174,185	267,710	445,895
1953	221,951	325,016	546,968
1952	226,267	343,599	569,866
1951	303,537	245,588	549,125
1950	322,593	323,646	646,240
1949	246,512	467,367	713,879
1948	752,188	896,298	1,648,487
1947	904,134	1,145,861	2,049,996
1946	1,028,245	1,004,245	2,032,869

Most of the coal mined in Allegany County during 1955 was by the strip method. Of the 199,102 tons in Allegany County, 104,571 tons was excavated by power shovels. Using the old pick method in the mines accounted for 65,468 tons while another 29,062 tons were mined by machines.

Garrett County had a different situation. Of the 324,807 total, 134,736 tons were dug in the mines by machines. Stripping operations accounted for 123,998 tons while 66,073 tons was dug by hand.

Frank T. Powers, Frostburg, director of the Bureau of Mines located at Westernport, listed in the bureau's report that during 1955 it was only necessary to obtain one warrant against a coal mine operator due to violations of the Maryland Mining law.

The warrant was obtained against the operator for failure to make the required reports to the bureau. He was ordered to pay a fine and costs. Upon payment of costs, the fine was suspended since he had made the necessary report.

Powers also noted that there were no fatal accidents in Maryland coal mines. There has been none since 1953, he added.

The district mine inspectors for the Maryland bureau issued two safety orders during 1955 as a result of numerous violations of the mining laws in two mines. One closed until the safety regulations were complied with, while the other never reopened.

Firm Awarded Radar Pact

A contract for constructing a "gap filler" radar station on Thomas Mountain in Tucker County has been awarded to a Chicago firm.

According to Rep. Harley O. Staggers (D-W. Va.) the Interstate General Contractors Inc., of Chicago has been awarded the $55,000 contract. Work schedule calls for completion of the station in January, 1957.

The district office of the U. S. Corps of Engineers at Huntington will supervise construction. Installation consists of a concrete block building with radar tower.

It was explained the station will be unmanned but is part of a radar network, operating between two stations and transmitting signals to them in event of invasion by enemy planes.

Most of the coal mined in Allegany County during 1955 was by the strip method. Of the 199,102 tons in Allegany County, 104,571 tons was excavated by power shovels. Using the old pick method in the mines accounted for 65,468 tons while another 29,062 tons were mined by machines.

Garrett County had a different situation. Of the 324,807 total, 134,736 tons were dug in the mines by machines. Stripping operations accounted for 123,998 tons while 66,073 tons was dug by hand.

Frank T. Powers, Frostburg, director of the Bureau of Mines located at Westernport, listed in the bureau's report that during 1955 it was only necessary to obtain one warrant against a coal mine operator due to violations of the Maryland Mining law.

The warrant was obtained against the operator for failure to make the required reports to the bureau. He was ordered to pay a fine and costs. Upon payment of costs, the fine was suspended since he had made the necessary report.

Powers also noted that there were no fatal accidents in Maryland coal mines. There has been none since 1953, he added.

The district mine inspectors for the Maryland bureau issued two safety orders during 1955 as a result of numerous violations of the mining laws in two mines. One closed until the safety regulations were complied with, while the other never reopened.

MARY MEADE

Scholarship Winner Is Announced

Miss Mary Meade, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Meade Calla Hill, Mt. Savage, has been announced the winner of the Catherman Scholarship, given by Algonquin Chapter, National Secretaries Association, for the fall term beginning in September.

The third scholarship awarded by Algonquin Chapter covers books and tuition for the full secretarial course.

It is awarded on the basis of a competitive general aptitude examination given July 28 by Ralph P. Wimer. All girl graduates of Allegany County high schools and Ridgeley were eligible.

Miss Meade was a graduate of the June 1956 class of Catholic Girls Central High School. While there she served as senior president of the Student Advisory Council, treasurer of the Catholic Students Mission Crusade, and an active member of the school Choral Club. During the year she won the Homemaker of Tomorrow award for her school, and at commencement exercises, among other awards, received the one for highest scholastic average for four years.

The Scholarship committee consists of Mrs. Pauline Grant, chairman, Miss Dorothy Hillegas, Miss Ruth Shaw, Miss Kethleen Helker and Mrs. Anna Hartung.

The Friendship Circle Bible Class of Park Place Methodist Church will hold a picnic for the County Infirmary patients this afternoon. Cars will leave the church at 4:30.

There will be a ritual practice of the Women of the Moose, Chapter 914, at 7 tomorrow night. The regular meeting will be held at 8 o'clock.

Theme Booth Winners

An improvement in ideas for the theme booths exhibited at the Fair was noted by Miss Mary Wise, who said last evening that except for three using the new voting machine, there was no repetition among the 23 booths competing. She also pointed out that some who were not winners had excellent ideas, but lost points on the execution of them. All clubs competing will receive a $10 award. Last year the majority used world peace as their theme, with attention to the A and H bombs.

Frostburg was first place with "Highway Safety," based on the Golden Rule. It received $25. McCoole placed second with "Basic Ingredients of Good Homemaker," depicting a pantry shelf of home management, family life, food and nutrition, health and safety, sewing, arts and recreation, extension projects. It receives $22. The Progressive Young Women of Potomac Valley was third with "Citizenship" as the theme, encouraging registration, becoming informed with reading current news and voting. It received $20.

The next five places received $18, $16, $14, $13, and $12 respectively. Others of the top seven were Lonaconing Homemakers, Lonaconing Women's Club, Midlothian and Polish Mountain Club. Two concerned health, one on Salk Vaccine and the other "Homemaker Heart of the Home," stressing care of the heart; another was on extension work with a large telephone and the dial area subject areas instead of numbers, and the seventh, making items using feed sacks.

"Needs and Possible Resources for the Mental Hygiene of Children in Maryland," will be the topic of the meeting. The program will feature a moving picture, "The Quiet One," followed by a discussion with Mrs. Ella Everstine as moderator. Mrs. Everstine is a psychiatric worker and consultant in mental hygiene for the Allegany County Health Department.

An improvement in ideas for the theme booths exhibited at the Fair was noted by Miss Mary Wise, who said last evening that except for three using the new voting machine, there was no repetition among the 23 booths competing. She also pointed out that some who were not winners had excellent ideas, but lost points on the execution of them. All clubs competing will receive a $10 award. Last year the majority used world peace as their theme, with attention to the A and H bombs.

Frostburg was first place with "Highway Safety," based on the Golden Rule. It received $25. McCoole placed second with "Basic Ingredients of Good Homemaker," depicting a pantry shelf of home management, family life, food and nutrition, health and safety, sewing, arts and recreation, extension projects. It receives $22. The Progressive Young Women of Potomac Valley was third with "Citizenship" as the theme, encouraging registration, becoming informed with reading current news and voting. It received $20.

The next five places received $18, $16, $14, $13, and $12 respectively. Others of the top seven were Lonaconing Homemakers, Lonaconing Women's Club, Midlothian and Polish Mountain Club. Two concerned health, one on Salk Vaccine and the other "Homemaker Heart of the Home," stressing care of the heart; another was on extension work with a large telephone and the dial area subject areas instead of numbers, and the seventh, making items using feed sacks.

Biochemists Unravel Secrets Of Glucagon

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 21 (AP)—Eli Lilly & Co. said today a team of its biochemists has unraveled the complicated structure of glucagon, a protein that balances the action of insulin in the body.

Lilly said the chemical structure of glucagon is too complex for manufacturing synthetically now, but discovery of the structure provides a new tool in diabetes research.

The team found the big glucagon molecule, composed of 473 atoms, is a single chain of 29 amino acid units. Glucagon has been known as the protein, found in the pancreas, which increases sugar in the blood, contrasted with insulin, which lowers the sugar content.

British Economic Action Fails To Sway Egyptians

CAIRO, Aug. 21 (AP) — British economic measures against Egypt so far have failed to dampen the resistance of Egypt's impoverished masses against international control of the Suez Canal.

Shortly after President Gamal Abdel Nasser nationalized the Suez Canal Co., Britain froze Egypt's sterling assets abroad amounting to some 336 million dollars.

This action has brought British-Egyptian trade to a virtual standstill. The value of the Egyptian pound on European currency markets has plunged downward. And for the moment at least, Egypt is being denied most of the Suez Canal revenues. They are being paid into accounts of the old company in Europe by ships of leading powers of the West.

Egypt partly has countered these measures by some adroit financial maneuvering. But the main reason why the sterling freeze is ineffective is that most of Egypt's population is practically immune to economic warfare.

Arab nationalism stresses freedom from foreign control and the hunger for independence and quality. Hunger for bread is an old old story in the Middle East and can be tolerated.

Financial measures which Egypt took to meet the crisis are:

1. Before Britain froze Egypt's sterling, Egypt transferred more than four million pounds from its free account into Swiss francs as a precautionary measure.

2. Egypt has tried to expand its trade with countries with which Egypt has bilateral trade agreements, particularly those behind the Iron Curtain.

3. With other countries, Egypt is trying to go on a dollar basis or switch to trade in the currency of the countries involved.

Meanwhile Egypt's stocks of wheat and other foods are adequate to meet the crisis. The British squeeze will show up largely in shortages of spare parts and industrial equipment.

These shortages will scarcely be felt by Egypt's masses of peasants who subsist on such low standard of living that they are hardly affected by international economic changes. Egyptian peasants are stubborn people, willing to undergo incredible privations.

Egyptians generally know they cannot get much hungrier than they already are. They have a fatalistic belief they can not get much more to eat in this world, either. This attitude has produced an indifference toward economic pressures hard for Westerners to understand.

This attitude of Egyptians and Arabs helps explain why the millions invested by Britain and the United States in technical and economic assistance have failed to win friendship while the Soviet Union with almost no financial investment has reaped rich dividends by simply catering to Arab nationalism.

Protestant Criticisms Of Catholic Teachings About Mary Answered

By GEORGE CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

Protestants and Roman Catholics often clash today about Mary, the mother of Jesus.

Controversy about the Virgin has gone on since ancient times, along before Christianity split up organizationally. But much of the present discord was built up between the two major bodies.

Both sides have dealt out criticism. But most often, Protestants have raised their dissent against Catholic teachings about Mary, particularly as elaborated by the church in modern times.

The Rev. Juniper B. Carol, a leading Marian scholar and Catholic theologian, says:

"If the average Protestant really understood the position of the church on Mary, and the reasons for it, in many cases there would be little disagreement."

Whether the trouble stems from basic differences in belief or at times the mere misconstruing of each other's terminology, the conflict persists. Some hold it is driving a deeper wedge in Christianity.

For possible clarification, some of the frequent Protestant criticisms were put to Father Carol, founder of the Mariological Society of America, in an interview at St. Bonaventure University where he teaches.

Here, foreshortened, are a few of the criticisms (C) and his remarks (R):

C. The Catholic Church gives attention to Mary far out of proportions to the scanty references to her in Scripture.

R. "Every Catholic scholar would be the first to admit there is relatively little about Mary in the Bible. But we feel that the little there is is a very precious little, with a wealth of meaning."

C. The Apostles seldom mentioned Mary in teaching in the faith. How can the Catholic Church justify the emphasis on her now?

R. "The Apostles were commissioned to preach Jesus crucified—summarize his life, passion and death. The main task then was to prove that Christ was the Messiah, the son of God. Anything else, for them, was naturally secondary. Certainly Mary is secondary to Christ in every sense."

C. By crediting Mary with great authority, second only to Christ, Catholics create a figure akin to a pagan-type goddess.

R. "Mary is not a goddress or anything similar to it. We keep saying until we're blue in the face that Mary is not divine, but still the claim is raised that we divinize Our Lady.

"Our Lady is a creature as much as you and I and not entitled to divine honors any more than you and I. This is made clear in our literature, in our catechisms, in everything we teach."

Palace To Change Hands

SAIGON, Aug. 21 (AP)—The splendid Gia Long Palace, built half a century ago to house the French governors of Cochin China, soon will be turned over to the South Viet Nam government. With the departure of the last French high commissioner in Viet Nam, Henri Hoppenot, his government found the palace too large for the regular embassy that will house the establishment of his successor, Ambassador Jean Payart.

Mrs. Richard Nixon Gives Her Philosophy For Life

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 21 (AP)—Pat Nixon gave this philosophy for life yesterday: "If you're just rally working hard and doing the best you can, then you have no regrets."

She had almost the same words when a reporter asked how she felt about criticism of her husband, Vice President Richard M. Nixon:

"I know in our own hearts we're doing the best we can, and I just don't worry."

Mrs. Nixon, 43, a strawberry blonde with brown eyes, met a score of women reporters for coffee and rolls yesterday in the hotel suite where the Nixons are staying during the Republican National Convention.

"Of course I don't discuss politics; I leave that to my husband," she started off. "There were requests for interviews and I thought you just might like to know about the family and life in general."

How was life in general? "Hectic."

The pretty wife in a gray tweed suit with a black velvet collar already had been to two breakfasts (Massachusetts and Minnesota delegations) before 10 a.m. She estimated she had shaken "several thousand" hands Sunday.

She brought six hats, four suits, two afternoon dresses, two reception dresses and two evening dresses to the convention. The tweed suit, she said, was "last year's number," and it was size 10.

She laughed when she confessed her shoes were size 8—"I wear the right size, regardless of pride, and my feet don't hurt."

The two Nixon daughters, Patricia, 10, and Julie, 8, are in Southern California, at La Habra, with Nixon's parents and are coming here Wednesday.

Partisan Foreign Policy Claims Cause Confusion

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

What the Democrats call dawdling and drifting, the Republicans call maintaining friendly relations with all the Middle East.

Such differences in appraisal, with the Democrats appraising the Republicans and the Republicans appraising themselves, are typical of the party platforms.

No more and no less was to be expected. The hope expressed by some that the political campaign could be waged without a foreign affairs debate was never very strong.

America's position in international affairs now transcends all other interests to the point where practically everything in her life revolves around it. Her social and economic progress are conditioned by it. Debate over it is inevitable and perhaps even healthful.

Whether the prospective debate proves to be healthful will depend on its conduct. Right at the moment it promises to be concerned primarily with processes rather than principles, with the danger that it will never get down to the fundamentals.

Mere partisan appraisals, designed for political purposes, only serve to confuse American's allies.

As for material issues, the party platforms are much alike. The Democrats, for instance, promise to send arms to Israel. The Republicans promise to defend her against military aggression.

If the debate is going to revolve around detailed differences like that it can only stir hopes and fears abroad.

If it could be made a constructive discussion of how to meet the Russian campaign for world hegemony it would be a reassertion of American leadership no matter which party wins. It probably won't.

Brink's Jury Search Continues Fruitless

BOSTON, Aug. 21 (AP)—Not a single juror had been seated today, after 1,100 veniremen had been processed, to try eight men accused of the nation's biggest cash theft, the $1,218,211 looting of Brink's Inc. armored money transfer agency, six years ago.

As the long procession of prospective jurors passe before Superior Court Judge Felix Forte, an increasing percentage claimed they had formed opinions based on publicity given the celebrated case, which would prevent them from rendering an impartial verdict. Such claim invariably released those summoned from jury duty.

Market Rallies But Fails To Erase Earlier Losses

NEW TORK, Aug. 21 (AP) — The stock market went into a steep decline today and rallied toward the close but not enough to wipe out its earlier losses.

The decline saw oils, coppers, steels, aircrafts and other leading categories hammered down in sharp selling waves with losses extending to five points.

The selling earlier in the day was variously attributed to tight money and firming interest rates (Leading commercial banks in several cities upped the prime rate they charge on loans to top-grade borrowers) and to unfavorable developments in the Suez Canal dispute. Some traders were unhappy over India's refusal to back the settlement proposed by Secretary of State Dulles at the 22-nation conference in London.

The rally got under way after traders noted that prices of long-term U.S. Treasury bonds—on the skids for some time—were finally heading higher.

The stock market, as measured by the Associated Press average of 60 key issues, was down $2.10 at $184.80. That's theoretically equivalent to a loss of more than 2½ billion dollars in the market value of the 1,500-odd securities listed on the New York Stick Exchange. The industrials component of the average was down $3.30 at $267.50, the Rails down $1.40 at $135.80 and utilities off 70 cents at $75.10.

This matches the decline of $2.10 on Aug. 6 which was the market's sharpest fall since June 8 when President Eisenhower became ill with an intestinal obstruction.

Baltimorean Runs Afoul Clever Thief

BALTIMORE, Aug. 21 (AP)—Marcelle T. Pasqual did the natural thing. Seeing someone ringing his doorbell when he drove up, Pasqual double-parked in front of his house and went up to see what he wanted.

The man told him, Pasqual related later to police, that he would like to see the piano Pasqual had advertised for sale.

While the man looked the piano over, Pasqual added, he went back to park his car.

When he returned, the man was gone. So was $32 and a duplicate set of car keys.

Pasqual ran outside to check his car.

It was gone.

Soil Bank Payments To Total 261 Million

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (AP)—The Department of Agriculture said today soil bank payments for 1956 will total a maximum of $261,000,000 for the 558,098 agreements signed to cover 12,300,000 acres.

Revised final figures released by the department showed 541,018 farms are covered by these agreements under the 1956 acreage reserve program of the soil bank.

The program, enacted this year at President Eisenhower's behest, was designed primarily to reduce production of these six basic crops: Wheat, Cotton, rice, tobacco, peanuts and corn.

LONDON, Aug. 21 (AP)—Stories about the Republican National Convention attracted little attention today in Europe.

To most editors it looked like a cut and dried affair.

Most West German newspapers frontpaged the story.

The correspondent of Milan's independent Corriere Della Sera cabled that the big problem was how to make the convention interesting. His story was carried next to the classified ads.

The general tone of Paris opinion was that both Eisenhower's and Nixon's renomination was a foregone conclusion.

One leading Swiss paper, the conservative - liberal Neue Zuercher Zeitung said Eisenhower's decision to arrive a day earlier than planned "saved the convention from its threatened deadly boredom."

NYC Places 406 Stations On Sale

NEW YORK, Aug. 21 (AP) — The New York Central Railroad, hoping to unload a heavy investment in passenger terminal real estate, today put 406 stations up for sale.

On the block are such big stations as those in Detroit, Buffalo, N. Y., and Toledo, Ohio. The list also included little one-man branch line way stations scattered along the Central's 10,700-mile system.

Alfred E. Perlman, president of the Central, said the railroad had decided to get rid of its stations in an effort to reduce consistent passenger deficits. The railroad figures it lost $37,788,353 last year on passenger operations.

Sale or long-term lease agreements would include provisions for the Central to lease back what space it needed for its passenger operations, Perlman said. The arrangement, he said, would not detract from the quality of passenger service.

Mrs. Richard Nixon Gives Her Philosophy For Life

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 21 (AP)—Pat Nixon gave this philosophy for life yesterday: "If you're just rally working hard and doing the best you can, then you have no regrets."

She had almost the same words when a reporter asked how she felt about criticism of her husband, Vice President Richard M. Nixon:

"I know in our own hearts we're doing the best we can, and I just don't worry."

Mrs. Nixon, 43, a strawberry blonde with brown eyes, met a score of women reporters for coffee and rolls yesterday in the hotel suite where the Nixons are staying during the Republican National Convention.

"Of course I don't discuss politics; I leave that to my husband," she started off. "There were requests for interviews and I thought you just might like to know about the family and life in general."

How was life in general? "Hectic."

The pretty wife in a gray tweed suit with a black velvet collar already had been to two breakfasts (Massachusetts and Minnesota delegations(before 10 a.m. She estimated she had shaken "several thousand" hands Sunday.

She brought six hats, four suits, two afternoon dresses, two reception dresses and two evening dresses to the convention. The tweed suit, she said, was "last year's number," and it was size 10.

She laughed when she confessed her shoes were size 8—"I wear the right size, regardless of pride, and my feet don't hurt."

The two Nixon daughters, Patricia, 10, and Julie, 8, are in Southern California, at La Habra, with Nixon's parents and are coming here Wednesday.

Partisan Foreign Policy Claims Cause Confusion

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

What the Democrats call dawdling and drifting, the Republicans call maintaining friendly relations with all the Middle East.

Such differences in appraisal, with the Democrats appraising the Republicans and the Republicans appraising themselves, are typical of the party platforms.

No more and no less was to be expected. The hope expressed by some that the political campaign could be waged without a foreign affairs debate was never very strong.

America's position in international affairs now transcends all other interests to the point where practically everything in her life revolves around it. Her social and economic progress are conditioned by it. Debate over it is inevitable and perhaps even healthful.

Whether the prospective debate proves to be healthful will depend on its conduct. Right at the moment it promises to be concerned primarily with processes rather than principles, with the danger that it will never get down to the fundamentals.

Mere partisan appraisals, designed for political purposes, only serve to confuse American's allies.

As for material issues, the party platforms are much alike. The Democrats, for instance, promise to send arms to Israel. The Republicans promise to defend her against military aggression.

If the debate is going to revolve around detailed differences like that it can only stir hopes and fears abroad.

If it could be made a constructive discussion of how to meet the Russian campaign for world hegemony it would be a reassertion of American leadership no matter which party wins. It probably won't.

Brink's Jury Search Continues Fruitless

BOSTON, Aug. 21 (AP)—Not a single juror had been seated today, after 1,100 veniremen had been processed, to try eight men accused of the nation's biggest cash theft, the $1,218,211 looting of Brink's Inc. armored money transfer agency, six years ago.

As the long procession of prospective jurors passe before Superior Court Judge Felix Forte, an increasing percentage c l a i m e d they had formed opinions based on publicity given the celebrated case, which would prevent them from rendering an impartial verdict. Such claim invariably released those summoned from jury duty.

Birmingham Has

Brc Lee in Montgomery County, V. Preston Lane Jr., in Washington County, and William C. Walsh in Allegany. Additionally, Mahoney never has been strong in Prince Georges County.

Each of those populous counties has seven votes each. Added to the seven votes of Baltimore County, it comes to 77 votes—one more than half of the total.

Birmingham also is fairly certain of Kent County's three unit votes. Kent was the first county to launch a trial balloon for Tydings at the start of the primary campaign, and observers feel it will back the anti-Mahoney selection.

Unite Rule Uncertain

A big question mark, however, is whether the counties would vote by unit rule. In other words, whether all the county's votes would be cast for the same person.

In many matters, it is mandatory that they do this. But the legal counsel for the committee says the law does not say they must.

So, conceivably, the votes from a county—or Baltimore City legislative district—could be divided, with some going to Birmingham and some to Mahoney.

Another big question mark was how the Eastern Shore would go. County leaders there appeared to be waiting for J. Millard Tawes to decide which way he would throw his support.

What About Shore?

The general feeling was that most of the Shore counties would go along with Birmingham. However, many are in the peculiar position of having declared themselves for Mahoney during the primary campaign.

One way out for them, if they did back Birmingham, would be to do it on a basis of strengthening the chances of a Shoreman—Tawes—getting the gubernatorial nomination in 1958.

Complicating the situation even more was Birmingham's announcement last Sunday that he would run for governor in 1958, then the next day his announcement as a candidate for Tydings' replacement. This obviously tended to queer whatever support he hoped for from Shore counties, for it placed him in contention with Tawes two years from now.

Statement Issued

Mahoney issued this statement:

"The people of Maryland would resent anyone even trying to deny me the nomination after my tying Mr. Tydings in the primary. I have received many, many telegrams and telephone calls supporting this view.

"I have confidence in the central committeemen throughout the state. I know they will do the right thing.

"I know some of them are checking with the voters in their counties. Politicans are trying to use pressure on them. But they are right honorable men and are going to be guided by the feelings of the people they represent."

In announcing that he has withdrawn as a possible candidate for the nomination as Democratic candidate for the U. S. Senate, former Attorney General William C. Walsh said:

"Yesterday I announced my withdrawal as a possible candidate for the Democratic nomination for the U. S. Senate in the interest of party harmony. I am particularly grateful to the Democratic State Central Committee of this county which offered to support me for the nomination prior to the recent primary, and which also offered to support me after Senator Tydings' withdrawal.

"After I had stated that I would not be a candidate in the primary I made no attempt to interfere with the action which the Allegany County Central committee then took, and I do not propose to attempt to interfere with the committee's action at this time.

"Since Senator Tydings' withdrawal it has been my opinion that the best interests of our party would be served by agreeing on some non-controversial candidate, and I still feel this way. So far as I am personally concerned, I am happy and content to continue practicing law, and I will be glad to do all I can in support of the Democratic nominee during the campaign."

Air Crash Victim's Widow Asks $303,000

CHICAGO, Aug. 21 (AP)—A suit for $303,000 against Trans World Airlines Inc., and the Glenn L. Martin Co. was filed yesterday by the widow of a man killed in a Pittsburgh air crash.

Mrs. Elizabeth C. Hamilton's suit stated her husband, John W., was killed April 1 when a TWA plane on which he was a passenger crashed while taking off from the Greater Pittsburgh Airport.

The two-engine airliner, carrying 33 passengers and a three-man crew, crashed into a hillside, killing 22.

The suit, filed in U.S. District Court, charged TWA with "carelessly and negligently" allowing the plane to be in a condition "dangerous and unsafe for use."

It also alleged the Martin firm improperly manufactured and assembled the airplane and used materials which were "defective and unsafe for the purposes intended."

Grounds For Divorce?

TORONTO, Aug. 21 (AP) — Mrs. Lena Book is suing her husband, David, for divorce. She says he hit her with a cooking pot and kicked her out of bed. He says she accused him of running around with other women. Mrs. Book is 76 and her husband is 82. They were married three years ago.

When you find a bra and girdle that are comfortable and improve your figure, it's smart to buy at least two sets, so that you can wear one while the other is being laundered.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Next To You

Already you have looked yourself over and decided what you can do to improve yourself for the new season ahead. Maybe you know that you have to lose weight. That's going to take time with diet and exercise combined. But in the meantime you can make your new clothes look better . . . and even fool the public a little by selecting a new girdle and bra, or an all-in-one foundation.

Be sure you try it on and have it fitted to you and your figure type. You have no idea, until you do this, what a difference the proper, well-fitted foundation can do for your entire appearance. Watch the length, remembering that girdles are made from ten to at least seventeen inches . . . and one inch more or less can make a whalebone of a difference in comfort, beauty, and health.

Don't just pick up something that is a "bargain" on a counter. Unless it is perfect for your figure, it is no bargain. Select what you need and have it properly fitted. The greatest mistake a number of women make is not taking the time or trouble to have their foundation garments—bra as well as girdle—fitted. When the figure is well and comfortably fitted, the wearer moves with better body balance.

When you find a girdle that improves your figure and seems to be comfortable, try sitting in it. Check that you can move comfortably and take a good deep breath. When you are seated in a new girdle, see that the garment is sufficiently long to prevent a roll of fresh from developing at either waist or thighs. When you bend over, ask yourself, "Does the garment curve with my body?" If it wrinkles or rides up, it is not correctly fitted.

Tomorrow—Collarbones need attention.

Calif. Gov. Knight Plays Host To 4,500 Republicans

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 21 (AP) — California Gov. Goodwin J. Knight played host to an estimated 4,500 Republicans last night at a champagne and supper ball in the mammoth civic auditorium.

The governor and Mrs. Knight, Vice President and Mrs. Nixon and San Francisco's Mayor George Christopher stood for several hours shaking hands with the guests.

It was a formal dress affair. The California state host committee said 10,000 invitations were mailed out. These went to all delegates to the Republican National Convention plus prominent Republicans throughout the nation.

A host committee spokesman said the party was financed by Knight supporters and various industrial and financial organizations.

Attractive young Republican girls handed out corsages to the women and boutonnieres to the men.

The menu was titled "Le Buffet des Gouverneurs" and consisted of le crabe du Pacific newburg en roudelle de mille feuilles which in English is crab newburg in a halfshell. The guests also tested les mignons de sandwich, or pint sized ham and tuna sandwiches, la salad de saison gourmet, lettuce salad from California's lettuce-growing Salinas County.

And there was les patisseries parisienne, little pastries, le cafe noir, black coffee.

The receiving line was made up of Secretary of Defense Charles Wilson, Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey, Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr., Secretary of Labor James Mitchell and from 15 to 20 Republican governors.

College Costs Climb Over The Years

The individual who came out of college 25 years ago and now has a young 'un headed for the ivied halls, is no doubt impressed — maybe staggered — by how much more college costs than it did in his day.

Allowance must be made for a shrunken dollar and for a cost of living about half again as high, but there is no denying it — college today costs a lot of money. Scarcely a school comes to less than twice as much as 25 years ago, and some schools cost three times as much.

Leafing through "American Colleges and Universities," published by the American Council on Education in 1928, one sees surprising figures. Total expense for a year at top-drawer women's colleges ranged from $770 to $1,270. Today? Studies indicate no less than $2,000 to $2,300 yearly is needed.

Private women's schools are in about the highest cost bracket, and private men's schools aren't far behind. One leading school with a $625-$775 price range in 1928, now will take $1,850 up.

The state university or college, traditionally easier on the family budget, can easily wipe out a family nest-egg. Although their total costs are still among the lowest, increases have been sharpest—often accounted for by stiff new tuition fees for state residents and even stiffer ones for out-of-state students.

Education doesn't come cheap, but it need not always cost as much as parents fear. It has been estimated that almost two-thirds of the nation lives within commuting distance of a college, in areas the U. S. Census Bureau classifies as metropolitan. If a student lives within commuting distance of a college it may not be much more expensive than attending high school. And most areas are supplied with colleges which never turn away able students.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Without The New Deal

The 1956 Democratic Convention retreated from the New Deal and moved in the direction of a concept called "Moderation." The platform does not define the difference, but obviously a new generation had come upon the Democrats, a generation who knew not the Roosevelt of 1932. The fighting, populistic Fair Deal Harry Truman was paid lip service, as was the [illegible]sident, but the mood obviously was not to be bound by the Rooseveltian past but to strike out into some new direction. The nomination of Adlai Stevenson gives to Joseph Rauh, Professor Arthur Schlesinger Jr. of the A.D.A. and Walter Reuther an opportunity to develop strong Fabian Socialist faction inside the Democratic Party.

Should Stevenson be elected, something new and different but not radical will appear. Should he be defeated, 1960 will mean a struggle between Northern and Southern conservatives in the Democratic Party and the A.D.A. which will, in such circumstances, accept the leadership of Walter Reuther. It may be a contest between Lyndon Johnson and Walter Reuther.

Both parties will come out of their conventions giving the appearance of unity, but each is actually torn by factionalism, and the interesting fact is that in each the factions are practically identical in ideas and traditions. Therefore, whichever party is defeated at the polls in November will be the first that splits on ideological grounds. In the Republican Party, it was Harold Stassen who sounded the first note of Leftist rebellion so close to the A.D.A. and the Committee for an Effective Congress. A joining of forces of radical Republicans and radical Democrats is long overdue. Both are unhappy in their own parties. The same is true of conservatives and it must not be forgotten that when Robert A. Taft was alive, conservative Republicans and Democrats combined to control the Congress and did.

Had Taft been chosen in 1952, there is no telling what could have happened to this conservative alliance. It might have built a new party, although everyone in the 1940s realized how difficult the formation of a new party is. Former Governor Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts in those days tried to build a Jeffersonian Democratic group in coalition with certain conservative Republicans, but this movement failed because the Southerners found that while a national party is not difficult to discuss, on the local level the control of the Court House and the State Legislature raises insurmountable difficulties.

The New Deal marked a radical change in the American concept of government, although not as radical as was assumed by the excited youth of the 1930s. Wayne Morse, in his surprising speech, listed the authors of the new times, the Square Deal, the Bull Moose, the New Deal or the Fair Deal—whatever you want to call it—and they were mostly Republicans and the name that loomed brightest was that of Theodore Roosevelt. However, that speech passed into a cloud of noise and it was hardly heard in the hall where it was delivered. But it gave a name to the constructive moderates that may stick and become important, Constitutional Liberalism. And that name means more than the word liberalism without a preceding adjective in an era when words become confused and are used to confuse, even to brainwash the multitude.

Harry Truman was fighting at the convention for the New Deal and the Fair Deal against something that seemed to him profane, namely, that men appeared to be willing to compromise with what Truman regards as irreconcilable opponents of his ideals and beliefs, in order that they might have a better chance to win. And so, Harry Truman fought and the younger men, even the younger television and radio commentators, could not understand what got Harry so excited unless it was all due to personal friendship for Averell Harriman. But it was more than that. Truman regards Stevenson's moderation as the conservatism, or rather as a compromise with the Southern conservatism that opposed his Fair Deal.

Each generation finds its own level. Adlai Stevenson was acceptable because he was a compromise. Harriman took an adamant attitude toward segregation; Lyndon Johnson was too Southern and besides the Democrats are not ready for him. No other candidates were really available. Besides few believed that 1956 would be a Democratic year "unless something happened to Ike." And politicians cannot gamble on something happening.

Another Smoke-Filled Room

Stevenson Lays Himself Open To Attack By GOP

By David Lawrence

SAN FRANCISCO — The Republicans have been expecting that Adlai Stevenson's academic type of campaigning would be an involuntary help to them as in 1952 — but they didn't anticipate he would furnish them so soon with a number of statements palpably vulnerable from a political viewpoint.

Adlai Stevenson is, of course, capable of making much better speeches than he delivered at Chicago and of coming to grips with issues more directly and with less of the abstractions of the "high brow" style which caused so many politicians in his own party to remark that he talks "over the head of his audiences."

Unfortunately, the Democratic presidential nominee in his speech of acceptance started out by knocking his own country — a mistake in politics. Most voters at the grassroots level don't like to hear any American of prominence, especially a candidate for the presidency, saying that the "prestige" of the United States abroad "has probably never been lower." Nor do many of them think it is either patriotic or helpful for such a spokesman to say that "we are losing the cold war" — as if an intangible such as "prestige" or the variations of Communist behavior in the world can be measured on the thermometer of a political party seeking to get back into power.

Didn't Say How

Yet the newly chosen Democratic nominee declared that "we must move rapidly to repair the ravages of the past four years to America's repute and influence abroad." But how? Will it be done by war, or by sabre-rattling and bluster, or by appeasement and, if not, then by what method can the unscrupulous men in the Kremlin be made to stop their insidious infiltration into the governments of the free world, including those of the "uncommitted" nations? Grants of money and bigger and bigger foreign aid programs have not done it so far, as Yugoslavia or India or Indonesia or Egypt might be cited to prove.

Just four years ago, moreover, General Eisenhower and John Foster Dulles were speaking in the campaign about the need for "liberating" the satellite countries from Communist enslavement, but the word "liberation" was promptly seized upon by Stevenson himself and by former Secretary of State Acheson as forecasting a "war of liberation." Now the Democratic nominee, apparently aware of the voting power of various groups of American citizens of ancestral origin in the countries of Eastern Europe, says:

"We must help other peoples out of Communist or colonial servitude along the hard road to freedom."

But how — by force or by the peaceful methods of diplomacy which are today the theme of the Eisenhower-Dulles policies? This question is likely to be asked again and again in the coming campaign.

There was another passage, however, which will later on rise to plague Stevenson more. He said that the Republicans are planning to "merchandise" their candidates "by shows, slogans and the art of advertising," and that this is "the ultimate indignity to the democratic process." But since when has advertising, as a dramatic means of getting attention and an economical means of communicating with masses of people through the press, the radio and television, suddenly become an "indignity to the democratic process."

Same Old Cliche

It's the same old cliche which the "egg heads" in the Stevenson camp have inserted in the speeches of various Democratic party spokesmen for a long time, little realizing that during the campaign of 1956 the Democratic National Committee and its auxiliary committees also would have to use advertising, prepared by advertising men, in order to reach the many millions of voters not reachable by personal canvass or by ringing doorbells.

The Stevenson speech laments the fact that there are still "30 million Americans" in families with incomes under $2,000 a year. He didn't say that this represents only 8.3 million families and unattached individuals and that the corresponding figure was 11.3 millions when the Democrats were in power in 1950. Nor did he mention that there are in America today a record total of 23 million families with incomes above $5,000 a year.

The Democratic nominee did concede, nevertheless, that "this is the age of abundance" and argued that "the quality of living" could be improved "now that the terrible, grinding anxieties of daily bread, of clothing and shelter, are disappearing." That's quite an admission for a candidate to make who earlier in the speech had made as his major point against the Republicans the assertion that "everyone is not prosperous."

But what did Adlai mean when he said in his speech: "Once we were not ashamed in this country to be idealists"? Not content with that cryptic statement, Mr. Stevenson went on to say:

"Once we were proud to confess that an American is a man who wants peace and believes in a better future and loves his fellow man. We must reclaim these great Christian and humane ideas. We must dare to say again that the American cause is the cause of all mankind."

Haven't President Eisenhower and a host of government officials uttered this same thought time and again in the last three years or more? Maybe the key to what's running through Stevenson's mind is to be found in another sentence in his speech, when he exclaims:

Apathy May Mean Contentment

"There doesn't appear to be much ardor in America just now for anything." For that reason, he suggests that "it's time to elect a Democratic administration and a Democratic Congress."

Adlai Stevenson may have put his finger on the biggest political fact looming up in this campaign—the apathy of the voters. Their lack of ardor may mean that there is economic contentment in the nation and, on the whole, satisfaction with things as they are. Maybe the Republicans will be stimulated to indulge in a little of the ardor of yesteryears and dust off some old slogans which the Democrats used so effectively: "You never had it so good — Don't rock the boat — It's not the time for change."

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

We have never calibrated an eye-piece on the slickers who butter up presidential aspirants. Every boy can be president. But the bright ones outgrow it.

Next to Bernarr McFadden the oddest was the prexy of Columbia University. His monicker was Nicklas Murray Butler and he was smarter than a mouse chewing his own door into a cheese factory.

We remember that Professor Butler attending all the conventions waiting for history to be interrupted by an important news announcement.

When the captains and the kings departed old Nick was still squatting there listening for sleighbells in July.

There was no doubt about his ability, his intelligence and his neatness. In politics he was ready to go both ways like a hitchhiker with a double-jointed thumb.

A Columbia prexy did make the grade in 1952 but it wasn't Professor Butler. There was another Chicago maitre d' ivory who also had higher hopes than a monkey necking a giraffe. In later semesters he went pinker than sliced cold salmon.

Up until now no rich citizen has been elected prexola of the glorious U. S. A. The promoter and his pigeon are soon parted.

The story was told by Weber and Fields 50 years ago. Lew explained their partnership to Joe. "You have the money and I have the experience. At the finish I will have the money and you will have the experience."

Stassen Wires Influential Friends For Help In Move To Dump Nixon

By Drew Pearson

SAN FRANCISCO—Harold Stassen has kept secret most of the names and the correspondence he's exchanged with anonymous opponents of Vice President Nixon. However, this column is now able to reveal some of them.

Here is one telegram Stassen sent to Louis de Rochmont, 35 West 45th Street, New York, the motion picture producer formerly associated with Harry Luce in "Time Marches On."

"Developments are favorable," telegraphed Stassen, "situation continues to be difficult. Will welcome your counsel on manner of carrying forward especially on public side during next days.

"I am confident President Eisenhower's mind continues to be open on the vice presidential question. I believe if Herter is nominated President would be well pleased to have him as running-mate.

"Would you consider the announcement of 100 Americans—all listed in Who's Who—who believe the party should nominate Herter an important move? We shall remain in contact with you. (signed) Harold."

Another contributor to Stassen's dump Dick campaign was H. F. Johnson of the Johnson Wax Company, Racine, Wis. To him Stassen telegraphed:

"Letter received many thanks. Your understanding of the second and the third is correct."

Nicholas Roosevelt, cousin of Teddy Roosevelt and former minister to Hungary, was another contributor. To him at Big-Sur, South San Francisco, Stassen wired:

"Your forthright and vigorous words have stirred me deeply, many thanks and best wishes always. Harold."

To Helen Ames Lett of Danbury, Conn., another contributor, Stassen telegraphed: "It is late but not too late and it is very important for our country that we succeed."

Other contributors included: Frank A. Blum and Son, 1248 Carson Street, Pittsburgh; Johnson and Son, Racine, Wis., A. D. Strong Company, 938 Midland Bank Building, Minneapolis.

NOTE—Bailey Vinson of Tulsa who contributed $1,000 to Stassen was bounced as Republican national committeeman from Oklahoma on the first day the committee met in San Francisco. Vinson was once revealed by this column as pressuring the Interior Department to permit him to drill for oil on the Lake Souris Wildlife Refuge in North Dakota, an area where no drilling was permitted under the Democrats.

Publish The Platform?

Regardless of the bickering over Vice President Nixon, there was general unanimity that Senator Prescott Bush of Connecticut did not shine as chairman of the Resolutions Committee. His railroading tactics were finally overridden when it came to adopting the Republican platform.

"I agree with the former assistant secretary of state, Thruston Morton," said Sumner Pike, delegate from Maine," that what we adopt here will be scrutinized and examined by our opponents under a microscope. For that reason," continued Pike, "I propose that we see what we are passing upon in cold print. I find it difficult to act on o mere oral reading of the platform."

Pike referred to the manner in which Senator Bush read sections of the platform aloud and asked for an immediate vote without delegates having a chance to study the proposed sections.

"We have not printed the platform for security reasons," replied Senator Bush.

However, Congressman John Phillips of California agreed with Pike.

"Let's take a look at what we're voting on," he said.

"I confess," said kindly Senator Saltonstall of Massachusetts, "that I find it embarrassing to pass upon matters of this importance without knowing exactly what it is we are called upon to approve."

As a result the Resolutions Committee agreed that the platform would be mimeographed and they would have a chance to study the complete text the next day before a final vote.

San Francisco Go-Round

Bernard Shanley, the President's appointment secretary had to be pressured to go to the airport to meet Vice President Nixon. Shanley is Stassen's former campaign manager, didn't want to meet Nixon. It took quite a bit of pressuring to make him go . . . Indiana's Charley Halleck had to rewrite his nominating speech several times because of the Suez crisis. Right up until the last minute he was afraid something would happen at the London Conference to make him rewrite it again . . . Halleck took some fishing rods with him, will stop in Colorado en route back to Indiana for some trout fishing . . . Republican headquarters in San Francisco are at the Hotel Fairmount. Ben Swig, owner of the hotel, is a Democrat. He was in Chicago as a delegate to the Democratic convention when Republicans started arriving at his hotel . . . Len Hall has put his friend David Dows in as new committeeman from South Carolina. Hall and Russ Sprague knew Dows on Long Island. He has now moved to Aiken and become a transplanted South Carolinian. . . . David Sarnoff, the RCA mogul who's been under grand jury investigation in Philadelphia, hired the swankiest of all facilities for entertaining press and radio men. He took two whole floors at 1199 Sacramento Street, where newsmen can get free drinks and food anytime between 12 noon and 12 midnight.

Goody Worries

What worries Gov. Goodwin Knight, the only anti-Nixonite who has dared speak out with any vigor, is the danger of California going Democratic in November. With Nixon on the ticket the danger increases.

First you have to remember that both Stevenson and Kefauver rolled up terrific votes in California in June. And if you add their totals together, you get a total that Ike with Nixon on the ticket would find hard to beat.

Second, the California legislature is already close to going Democratic for the first time in half a century. Today the number of Democrats in the California State Senate is the highest in history—19. There are 21 Republicans, and even if the Democrats fail to pick up the necessary two votes to control, it's likely that two or three Republicans will join the Democrats, thus permitting the Democrats to organize the Senate.

In the California assembly, the Democrats have 35 members and need six more seats to control. There are six assembly districts now held by Republicans where the Democrats have a substantial majority of the registration.

So unless the national GOP ticket is powerful, Governor Knight could lose control of both houses of his legislature.

On The Line

By Bob Considine

SAN FRANCISCO (INS)—A man who ought to know, and does, said yesterday that President Eisenhower bawled out White House Aide Harold "Dump Nixon" Stassen when Stassen called on him at Gettysburg after announcing his "Herter-for-Vice-President" plan.

What burned up the President, the informant assures us, was not the "Dump Nixon" plan but the timing of its announcement.

Stassen dropped a fly in the orderly ointment of Republican politics just when the President was killing a couple of birds with one stone. He was in Panama demonstrating to understandably suspicious Latin American neighbors that we love that section of the world as dearly as we love Europe, Asia and Africa—even though we seldom get around to doing anything about the continent that is closest to us.

The President was also demonstrating that he has fully recovered from the severe ileitis attack which laid him low in April.

Sore About Timing

But Stassen's announcement blew Eisenhower off the front pages of America. That's what annoyed him. He felt that it blunted and flung a cloud across the trip.

Beyond that, the President didn't object to the Stassen move.

Eisenhower likes and respects Nixon, believes he has done an outstanding job. But he has been placed in the unpleasant role of not being able to speak out as strongly as he wishes in behalf of Nixon without, at the same time, blocking what he believes is the right thing to do—urge an "open" convention.

"The White House never had a more intellectually honest man," Herbert Hoover said of Eisenhower in an otherwise off-the-record chat with this reporter.

Eisenhower is telling the truth when he expressed a wish that the open convention extend to the race for the presidency also. He would be delighted if somebody in the party stood up against him, hard as that may be for some to believe.

Entertained By Knights

High spot on the party schedule Sunday, was the cocktail party given by Lee Ettelson, publisher of the San Francisco Call-Bulletin, and Mrs. Ettelson. They have a delightful place here.

The entertainment was by Gov. and Mrs. Goody Knight. The popular California couple has worked up a mind-reading act, partially with the aid of their friend Dunninger. The beauteous first lady of California retires to an off-stage room; Goody shakes hands with someone in the living room. Mrs. Knight re-enters, closes her eyes, concentrates, then walks over to the person. No word is passed between the two, and no apparent sign. Goody can do the trick, too.

"Can you read the minds of your legislature that well?" we asked him.

Retaliation Expected

Here's the latest communique from the headquarters of Field Marshal Bernie Relin, the Clausewitz of Pepsi Cola's total war on Coca Cola, a conflict which has been raging ever since the politicking began at Chicago:

"Pepsi forces struck a fatal blow at the enemy early today by sending models dressed only in Pepsi buttons, and darn few of them, to various newspaper headquarters at the Fairmont—to distribute an estimated three tons of unprinted literature. The enemy cannot retaliate in this direction without having its cuties arrested for indecent exposure. Har!"

Which is nothing new.

A Discourse About Inflamed, Obstructed Ileum

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Reams have been written on President Eisenhower's regional ileitis. Many persons, lay and medical, question the diagnosis because the disease rarely occurs after age 60. It is regarded as a disorder of early adult life but there are always exceptions to any rule.

Dr. Burrill B. Crohn, who was the first to describe regional ileitis, says two of his 222 patients developed symptoms after age 60. Doctors I. S. Ravdin and C. G. The ileum is the last part of the small intestine and the terminal six to twelve inches of this structure are involved in this condition. During the acute inflammatory phase the intestine is red and congested and feels like a firm piece of rubber hose.

Congestion may disappear spontaneously or become more extensive and rupture in much the same way as does an inflamed appendix. But in most cases, inflammation continues to simmer and in time, scar tissue forms or the intestine becomes obstructed. This is what happened to the President.

The initial distress is so vague most victims are unaware when the disease started. They are bothered with colicky pains in this area, with periods of fever and general malaise. The ileum is only a few inches away from the appendix and early symptoms may be mistaken for appendicitis. Occasionally diarrhea, weakness, and debility are present.

Pain usually increases when the intestine becomes obstructed and when complete blockage occurs, the victim develops nausea, vomiting, and abdominal distention. X-rays are helpful in making the diagnosis but surgery is necessary to eliminate all doubt.

Removal of the inflamed section of the bowel is not always followed by cure because new areas become involved, leading to recurrences. The short-circuiting procedure that was done on the President is the treatment of choice in obstruction. The intestinal contents can then by-pass the affected region and inflammation subsides as a rule because the source of irritation is eliminated.

College Costs Climb Over The Years

The individual who came out of college 25 years ago and now has a young 'un headed for the ivied halls, is no doubt impressed — maybe staggered — by how much more college costs than it did in his day.

Allowance must be made for a shrunken dollar and for a cost of living about half again as high, but there is no denying it — college today costs a lot of money. Scarcely a school comes to less than twice as much as 25 years ago, and some schools cost three times as much.

Leafing through "American Colleges and Universities," published by the American Council on Education in 1928, one sees surprising figures. Total expense for a year at top-drawer women's colleges ranged from $770 to $1,270. Today? Studies indicate no less than $2,000 to $2,300 yearly is needed.

Private women's schools are in about the highest cost bracket, and private men's schools aren't far behind. One leading school with a $625-$775 price range in 1928, now will take $1,850 up.

The state university or college, traditionally easier on the family budget, can easily wipe out a family nest-egg. Although their total costs are still among the lowest, increases have been sharpest—often accounted for by stiff new tuition fees for state residents and even stiffer ones for out-of-state students.

Education doesn't come cheap, but it need not always cost as much as parents fear. It has been estimated that almost two-thirds of the nation lives within commuting distance of a college, in areas the U. S. Census Bureau classifies as metropolitan. If a student lives within commuting distance of a college it may not be much more expensive than attending high school. And most areas are supplied with colleges which never turn away able students.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Without The New Deal

The 1956 Democratic Convention retreated from the New Deal and moved in the direction of a concept called "Moderation." The platform does not define the difference, but obviously a new generation had come upon the Democrats, a generation who knew not the Roosevelt of 1932. The fighting, populistic Fair Dealer Harry Truman was paid lip service, as was the President, but the mood obviously was not to be bound by the Rooseveltian past but to strike out into some new direction. The nomination of Adlai Stevenson gives to Joseph Rauh, Professor Arthur Schlesinger Jr. of the A.D.A. and Walter Reuther an opportunity to develop a strong Fabian Socialist faction inside the Democratic Party.

Should Stevenson be elected, something new and different but not radical will appear. Should he be defeated, 1960 will mean a struggle between Northern and Southern conservatives in the Democratic Party and the A.D.A. which will, in such circumstances, accept the leadership of Walter Reuther. It may be a contest between Lyndon Johnson and Walter Reuther.

Both parties will come out of their conventions giving the appearance of unity, but each is actually torn by factionalism, and the interesting fact is that in each the factions are practically identical in ideas and traditions. Therefore, whichever party is defeated at the polls in November will be the first that splits on ideological grounds. In the Republican Party, it was Harold Stassen who sounded the first note of Leftist rebellion so close to the A.D.A. and the Committee for an Effective Congress. A joining of forces of radical Republicans and radical Democrats is long overdue. Both are unhappy in their own parties. The same is true of conservatives and it must not be forgotten that when Robert A. Taft was alive, conservative Republicans and Democrats combined to control the Congress and did.

Had Taft been chosen in 1952, there is no telling what could have happened to this conservative alliance. It might have built a new party, although everyone in the 1940s realized how difficult the formation of a new party is. Former Governor Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts in those days tried to build a Jeffersonian Democratic group in coalition with certain conservative Republicans, but this movement failed because the Southerners found that while a national party is not difficult to discuss, on the local level the control of the Court House and the State Legislature raises insurmountable difficulties.

The New Deal marked a radical change in the American concept of government, although not as radical as was assumed by the excited youth of the 1930s. Wayne Morse, in his surprising speech, listed the authors of the new times, the Square Deal, the Bull Moose, the New Deal or the Fair Deal—whatever you want to call it—and they were mostly Republicans and the name that loomed brightest was that of Theodore Roosevelt. However, that speech passed into a cloud of noise and it was hardly heard in the hall where it was delivered. But it gave a name to the constructive moderates that may stick and become important, Constitutional Liberalism. And that name means more than the word liberalism without a preceding adjective in an era when words become confused and are used to confuse, even to brainwash the multitude.

Harry Truman was fighting at the convention for the New Deal and the Fair Deal against something that seemed to him profane, namely, that men appeared to be willing to compromise with what Truman regards as irreconcilable opponents of his ideals and beliefs, in order that they might have a better chance to win. And so, Harry Truman fought and the younger men, even the younger television and radio commentators, could not understand what got Harry so excited unless it was all due to personal friendship for Averell Harriman. But it was more than that. Truman regards Stevenson's moderation as the conservatism, or rather as a compromise with the Southern conservatism that opposed his Fair Deal.

Each generation finds its own level. Adlai Stevenson was acceptable because he was a compromise. Harriman took an adamant attitude toward segregation; Lyndon Johnson was too Southern and besides the Democrats are not ready for him. No other candidates were really available. Besides few believed that 1956 would be a Democratic year "unless something happened to Ike." And politicians cannot gamble on something happening.

Another Smoke-Filled Room

Stevenson Lays Himself Open To Attack By GOP

By David Lawrence

SAN FRANCISCO — The Republicans have been expecting that Adlai Stevenson's academic type of campaigning would be an involuntary help to them as in 1952 — but they didn't anticipate he would furnish them so soon with a number of statements palpably vulnerable from a political viewpoint.

Adlai Stevenson is, of course, capable of making much better speeches than he delivered at Chicago and of coming to grips with issues more directly and with less of the abstractions of the "high brow" style which caused so many politicians in his own party to remark that he talks "over the head of his audiences."

Unfortunately, the Democratic presidential nominee in his speech of acceptance started out by knocking his own country — a mistake in politics. Most voters at the grass-roots level don't like to hear any American of prominence, especially a candidate for the presidency, saying that the "prestige" of the United States abroad "has probably never been lower." Nor do many of them think it is either patriotic or helpful for such a spokesman to say that "we are losing the cold war" — as if an intangible such as "prestige" or the variations of Communist behavior in the world can be measured on the thermometer of a political party seeking to get back into power.

Didn't Say How

Yet the newly chosen Democratic nominee declared that "we must move rapidly to repair the ravages of the past four years to America's repute and influence abroad." But how? Will it be done by war, or by sabre-rattling and bluster, or by appeasement and, if not, then by what method can the unscrupulous men in the Kremlin be made to stop their insidious infiltration into the governments of the free world, including those of the "uncommitted" nations? Grants of money and bigger and bigger foreign aid programs have not done it so far, as Yugoslavia or India or Indonesia or Egypt might be cited to prove.

Just four years ago, moreover, General Eisenhower and John Foster Dulles were speaking in the campaign about the need for "liberating" the satellite countries from Communist enslavement, but the word "liberation" was promptly seized upon by Stevenson himself and by former Secretary of State Acheson as forecasting a "war of liberation." Now the Democratic nominee, apparently aware of the voting power of various groups of American citizens of ancestral origin in the countries of Eastern Europe, says:

"We must help other peoples out of Communist or colonial servitude along the hard road to freedom."

But how — by force or by the peaceful methods of diplomacy which are today the theme of the Eisenhower-Dulles policies? This question is likely to be asked again and again in the coming campaign.

There was another passage, however, which will later on rise to plague Stevenson more. He said that the Republicans are planning to "merchandise" their candidates "by shows, slogans and the art of advertising," and that this is "the ultimate indignity to the democratic process." But since when has advertising, as a dramatic means of getting attention and an economical means of communicating with masses of people through the press, the radio and television, suddenly become an "indignity to the democratic process."

Same Old Cliche

It's the same old cliche which the "egg heads" in the Stevenson camp have inserted in the speeches of various Democratic party spokesmen for a long time, little realizing that during the campaign of 1956 the Democratic National Committee and its auxiliary committees also would have to use advertising, prepared by advertising men, in order to reach the many millions of voters not reachable by personal canvass or by ringing doorbells.

The Stevenson speech laments the fact that there are still "30 million Americans" in families with incomes under $2,000 a year. He didn't say that this represents only 8.3 million families and unattached individuals and that the corresponding figure was 11.3 millions when the Democrats were in power in 1950. Nor did he mention that there are in America today a record total of 23 million families with incomes above $5,000 a year.

The Democratic nominee did concede, nevertheless, that "this is the age of abundance" and argued that "the quality of living" could be improved "now that the terrible, grinding anxieties of daily bread, of clothing and shelter, are disappearing." That's quite an admission for a candidate to make who earlier in the speech had made as his major point against the Republicans the assertion that "everyone is not prosperous."

But what did Adlai mean when he said in his speech: "Once we were not ashamed in this country to be idealists"? Not content with that cryptic statement, Mr. Stevenson went on to say:

"Once we were proud to confess that an American is a man who wants peace and believes in a better future and loves his fellow man. We must reclaim these great Christian and humane ideas. We must dare to say again that the American cause is the cause of all mankind."

Haven't President Eisenhower and a host of government officials uttered this same thought time and again in the last three years or more? Maybe the key to what's running through Stevenson's mind is to be found in another sentence in his speech, when he exclaims:

Apathy May Mean Contentment

"There doesn't appear to be much ardor in America just now for anything." For that reason, he suggests that "it's time to elect a Democratic administration and a Democratic Congress."

Adlai Stevenson may have put his finger on the biggest political fact looming up in this campaign—the apathy of the voters. Their lack of ardor may mean that there is economic contentment in the nation and, on the whole, satisfaction with things as they are. Maybe the Republicans will be stimulated to indulge in a little of the ardor of yesteryears and dust off some old slogans which the Democrats used so effectively: "You never had it so good — Don't rock the boat — It's not the time for change."

"Developments are favorable," telegraphed Stassen, "situation continues to be difficult. Will welcome your counsel on manner of carrying forward especially on public side during next days.

"I am confident President Eisenhower's mind continues to be open on the vice presidential question. I believe if Herter is nominated President would be well pleased to have him as running-mate.

"Would you consider the announcement of 100 Americans—all listed in Who's Who—who believe the party should nominate Herter an important move? We shall remain in contact with you. (signed) Harold."

Another contributor to Stassen's dump Dick campaign was H. F. Johnson of the Johnson Wax Company, Racine, Wis. To him Stassen telegraphed:

"Letter received many thanks. Your understanding of the second and the third is correct."

Nicholas Roosevelt, cousin of Teddy Roosevelt and former minister to Hungary, was another contributor. To him at Big-Sur, South San Francisco, Stassen wired:

"Your forthright and vigorous words have stirred me deeply, many thanks and best wishes always. Harold."

To Helen Ames Lett of Danbury, Conn., another contributor, Stassen telegraphed: "It is late but not too late and it is very important for our country that we succeed."

Other contributors included: Frank A. Blum and Son, 1248 Carson Street, Pittsburgh; Johnson and Son, Racine, Wis., A. D. Strong Company, 938 Midland Bank Building, Minneapolis.

NOTE—Bailey Vinson of Tulsa who contributed $1,000 to Stassen was bounced as Republican national committeeman from Oklahoma on the first day the committee met in San Francisco. Vinson was once revealed by this column as pressuring the Interior Department to permit him to drill for oil on the Lake Souris Wildlife Refuge in North Dakota, an area where no drilling was permitted under the Democrats.

Publish The Platform?

Regardless of the bickering over Vice President Nixon, there was general unanimity that Senator Prescott Bush of Connecticut did not shine as chairman of the Resolutions Committee. His railroading tactics were finally overridden when it came to adopting the Republican platform.

"I agree with the former assistant secretary of state, Thruston Morton," said Sumner Pike, delegate from Maine," that what we adopt here will be scrutinized and examined by our opponents under a microscope. For that reason," continued Pike, "I propose that we see what we are passing upon in cold print. I find it difficult to act on o mere oral reading of the platform."

Pike referred to the manner in which Senator Bush read sections of the platform aloud and asked for an immediate vote without delegates having a chance to study the proposed sections.

"We have not printed the platform for security reasons," replied Senator Bush.

However, Congressman John Phillips of California agreed with Pike.

"Let's take a look at what we're voting on," he said.

"I confess," said kindly Senator Saltonstall of Massachusetts, "that I find it embarrassing to pass upon matters of this importance without knowing exactly what it is we are called upon to approve."

As a result the Resolutions Committee agreed that the platform would be mimeographed and they would have a chance to study the complete text the next day before a final vote.

San Francisco Go-Round

Bernard Shanley, the President's appointment secretary had to be pressured to go to the airport to meet Vice President Nixon. Shanley is Stassen's former campaign manager, didn't want to meet Nixon. It took quite a bit of pressuring to make him go . . . Indiana's Charley Halleck had to rewrite his nominating speech several times because of the Suez crisis. Right up until the last minute he was afraid something would happen at the London Conference to make him rewrite it again . . . Halleck took some fishing rods with him, will stop in Colorado en route back to Indiana for some trout fishing . . . Republican headquarters in San Francisco are at the Hotel Fairmount. Ben Swig, owner of the hotel, is a Democrat. He was in Chicago as a delegate to the Democratic convention when Republicans started arriving at his hotel . . . Len Hall has put his friend David Dows in as new committeeman from South Carolina. Hall and Russ Sprague knew Dows on Long Island. He has now moved to Aiken and become a transplanted South Carolinian. . . . David Sarnoff, the RCA mogul who's been under grand jury investigation in Philadelphia, hired the swankiest of all facilities for entertaining press and radio men. He took two whole floors at 1199 Sacramento Street, where newsmen can get free drinks and food anytime between 12 noon and 12 midnight.

Goody Worries

What worries Gov. Goodwin Knight, the only anti-Nixonite who has dared speak out with any vigor, is the danger of California going Democratic in November. With Nixon on the ticket the danger increases.

First you have to remember that both Stevenson and Kefauver rolled up terrific votes in California in June. And if you add their totals together, you get a total that Ike with Nixon on the ticket would find hard to beat.

Second, the California legislature is already close to going Democratic for the first time in half a century. Today the number of Democrats in the California State Senate is the highest in history—19. There are 21 Republicans, and even if the Democrats fail to pick up the necessary two votes to control, it's likely that two or three Republicans will join the Democrats, thus permitting the Democrats to organize the Senate.

In the California assembly, the Democrats have 35 members and need six more seats to control. There are six assembly districts now held by Republicans where the Democrats have a substantial majority of the registration.

So unless the national GOP ticket is powerful, Governor Knight could lose control of both houses of his legislature.

On The Line

By Bob Considine

SAN FRANCISCO (INS)—A man who ought to know, and does, said yesterday that President Eisenhower bawled out White House Aide Harold "Dump Nixon" Stassen when Stassen called on him at Gettysburg after announcing his "Herter-for-Vice-President" plan.

What burned up the President, the informant assures us, was not the "Dump Nixon" plan but the timing of its announcement.

Stassen dropped a fly in the orderly ointment of Republican politics just when the President was killing a couple of birds with one stone. He was in Panama demonstrating to understandably suspicious Latin American neighbors that we love that section of the world as dearly as we love Europe, Asia and Africa—even though we seldom get around to doing anything about the continent that is closest to us.

The President was also demonstrating that he has fully recovered from the severe ileitis attack which laid him low in April.

Sore About Timing

But Stassen's announcement blew Eisenhower off the front pages of America. That's what annoyed him. He felt that it blunted and flung a cloud across the trip.

Beyond that, the President didn't object to the Stassen move.

Eisenhower likes and respects Nixon, believes he has done an outstanding job. But he has been placed in the unpleasant role of not being able to speak out as strongly as he wishes in behalf of Nixon without, at the same time, blocking what he believes is the right thing to do—urge an "open" convention.

"The White House never had a more intellectually honest man," Herbert Hoover said of Eisenhower in an otherwise off-the-record chat with this reporter.

Eisenhower is telling the truth when he expressed a wish that the open convention extend to the race for the presidency also. He would be delighted if somebody in the party stood up against him, hard as that may be for some to believe.

Entertained By Knights

High spot on the party schedule Sunday, was the cocktail party given by Lee Ettelson, publisher of the San Francisco Call-Bulletin, and Mrs. Ettelson. They have a delightful place here.

The entertainment was by Gov. and Mrs. Goody Knight. The popular California couple has worked up a mind-reading act, partially with the aid of their friend Dunninger. The beauteous first lady of California retires to an off-stage room; Goody shakes hands with someone in the living room. Mrs. Knight re-enters, closes her eyes, concentrates, then walks over to the person. No word is passed between the two, and no apparent sign. Goody can do the trick, too.

"Can you read the minds of your legislature that well?" we asked him.

Retaliation Expected

Here's the latest communique from the headquarters of Field Marshal Bernie Relin, the Clausewitz of Pepsi Cola's total war on Coca Cola, a conflict which has been raging ever since the politicking began at Chicago:

"Pepsi forces struck a fatal blow at the enemy early today by sending models dressed only in Pepsi buttons, and darn few of them, to various newspaper headquarters at the Fairmont—to distribute an estimated three tons of unprinted literature. The enemy cannot retaliate in this direction without having its cuties arrested for indecent exposure. Har!"

Score Handcuffs Yankees With Two Hits, Indians Win, 3-0

Cleveland Ace Hits Home Run In 7th Inning

Fans 11 Batsmen, Holds New Yorkers Hitless Until 8th

NEW YORK, Aug. 21 (AP)—Herb Score handcuffed the mighty New York Yankees with two hits tonight, a double by Elston Howard in the eighth and a single by Mickey Mantle in the ninth, as the Cleveland Indians defeated the American League leaders 3-0 and shaved their margin to 7½ games.

Score, a $60,000 bonus baby in 1952, topped his fine performance by hitting a home run, his first in the majors, in the seventh inning with no one on.

Until Howard got his hit, the crowd of 39,187 sat hushed and tense. Score had come close to a no-hitter once before, last year when he shut out Baltimore on one hit, a single by Jim Dyck in the fourth.

Howard's hit was a clean one, a sizzling liner to left center. Neither Al Smith nor Rocky Colivito had a chance at it. But Howard died on second while Andy Carey grounded out, Mickey McDermott struck out and Hank Bauer also rolled out.

That released the pressure on Score. With one out in the ninth, Mantle, now only six games ahead of Babe Ruth's record home-run pace, bounced a single over George Strickland's head. But, he, too, got no further as Yogi Berra fouled out and Billy Martin fanned.

Otherwise, the Yanks' offense was nil. Score struck out 11, to run his strikeout total to 199, high in the majors. And he batted in two of the Indians' runs.

Baltimore Edges Kansas City, 4-3

BALTIMORE, Aug. 21 (AP) — Bob Boyd rapped a single to right field in the last of the ninth inning tonight to score Grady Hatton with the winning run for a 4-3 Baltimore victory over the Kansas City Athletics.

Hatton had walked to open the Oriole ninth and was sacrificed to second by Joe Ginsberg. Art Ditmar, fourth Kansas City pitcher, went to the mound and walked Dick Williams intentionally to set up a possible double play.

But Boyd, who returned to action only last week after being out with an injury almost three months, knocked out his third hit for his second run batted in. He also tripled in the second, and scored on George Kell's single, and singled home the tying run in the seventh.

George Zuverink, the Orioles' fireman hurler, pitched the last two innings and got credit for his sixth victory against five defeats. Starter Bill Wight gave way for a pinch hitter in the seventh.

Detroit Beats Senators, 8-3

Tigers Get 13 Hits, Steve Gromek Wins

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (AP) — Detroit pounded four Washington pitchers for 13 hits, including three each by Bill Tuttle and Frank Bolling, and defeated the Senators 8-3 tonight.

Steve Gromek went the distance in racking up his seventh win of the year, although he had some shaky moments. One of the nine hits he surrendered was Roy Sievers' 23rd home run of the season.

It was Gromek's first start in six weeks, and snapped a four-game winning streak the Senators had put together at the expense of the Boston Red Sox.

Washington grabbed a 2-0 lead in the second, but Harvey Kuenn singled across two runs that tied the score and chased Hal Griggs in the fourth.

Detroit moved in front to stay against Bunky Stewart, the loser, in the fifth. Al Kaline singled and was forced by Bob Kennedy. Kennedy continued to second when Herb Plews threw wild past first and scored on Tuttle's single.

Kennedy singled across two runs in the sixth and, after Sievers smashed his solo homer in the eighth, the Tigers rocked Connie Grob for three runs in the ninth.

Ripney Picks Milwaukee To Take Pennant

Superior Pitching Difference, He Says

By JOE REICHLER

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 21 (AP)—Bill Rigney, manager of the New York Giants, went on record today as picking the Milwaukee Braves to nip the Brooklyn Dodgers for the National League pennant.

The gaunt skipper of the league's tail-end club said he was not discounting the power of the slugging Cincinnati Redlegs, currently lodged in third place, only three and a half games behind the front running Braves.

It is his belief, however, that the Redlegs lack the strong pitching vital in such a close race.

"Pitching will be the big difference in the stretch drive," Rigney predicted. "To my mind, the Braves have much superior pitching to the Dodgers. The only commodity they lack is a strong relief pitcher. But with the race so near the end, and with so many open days in the remaining schedule, Haney (Milwaukee Manager Fred Haney) is in a position to employ his pitchers in such a way that fellows like Warren Spahn and Lew Burdette will be able to relieve in between regular starts."

It was pointed out to Rigney that the Dodgers have a great advantage in the schedule in the final months. During September, Brooklyn will play only four games away from home while the Braves will have to play all but five of their games on the road.

"That's true," conceded Rigney. "But what everybody is overlooking is that the Dodgers will have nine games left against the Giants. And I promise you we're going to be rough. We have no intentions of finishing in the basement and it might just be the Dodgers' misfortune."

Rigney's high regard for Milwaukee undoubtedly stems from the fact that the Braves already have whipped the Giants 14 times in 17 meetings. Not since the pre-Durocher days has any club held such complete dominance over the Giants. Against Brooklyn, the Giants have won five and lost eight.

NCAA Switches Coast Schools

DENVER, Aug. 21—(INS)—Big-time colleges UCLA and Washington U., already spanked by the Pacific Coast Conference for football violations of the "amateur rule," got another switching today from the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

The association's 18-member council, at a mid-year meeting in Denver, resolved to support the PCC's "prompt and vigorous disciplinary actions" against the Bruins and the Huskies in cases involving play-for-pay star gridders.

Only one other case was considered by the NCAA and that was Ohio State, now on probation in the Big Ten Conference. Final action was deferred until a supplementary investigation can be completed.

Redlegs Defeat Pittsburgh, 7-4

CINCINNATI, Aug. 21 (AP)—Cincinnati's Redlegs blew a 3-1 lead in the top of the eighth inning tonight, then roared back with four runs in their half of the inning to defeat Pittsburgh's Pirates 7-4.

The Redlegs spliced together four hits, including a homer, in the big eighth inning and got a hand in their scoring efforts through an error by Dale Long.

Long fired a wild throw to first on a grounder by Gus Bell, allowing Johnny Temple to sprint home from third with the tying run and putting Bell safe at first.

Gilliam Steals Home As Brooks Edge Cards, 2-1

Erskine Racks Up 9th Straight Win

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 21 (AP)—Junior Gilliam, collecting half Brooklyn's eight hits, stole home with the eventual decisive run tonight as Carl Erskine gained his ninth straight victory, 2-1, over the St. Louis Cardinals.

It was Erskine's 11th victory against six defeats. The two clubs executed eight doubleplays, one short of the major league record.

The little Dodger righthander was relieved by Don Bessent at the start of the eighth and Bessent stifled the Redbirds without a hit the last two innings.

Herm Wehmeier, big St. Louis righthander, pitched well in seeking his sixth straight victory but instead took his ninth defeat against eight victories.

Gilliam scored twice and had two doubles among his four hits.

Colts Through Experimenting With Rookies

Gained Only 20 Yards Against New Yorkers

WESTMINSTER, Md., Aug. 21 (AP)—Coach Weeb Ewbank of the Baltimore Colts said today the experimenting with rookies in preseason games is over.

"We'll start to think about a first team, now," Ewbank said as the Colts returned to the training camp following a 28-10 exhibition loss to the New York Giants in Boston last night.

The coach blamed the defeat on three factors:

"First, we experimented, using various player combinations and most of our rookies against a team that had a set lineup.

"Secondly, we played poorly (the Colts gained only 20 yards rushing).

"Thirdly, we were playing against a very good team that thinks it has a good chance to go all the way and may well do so."

Colt casualties included Gino Marchetti, Art Donovan, Doug Eggers, Lenny Moore and Dick Chorovich. Dr. Erwin Mayer, team physician, said none of the injuries will incapacitate any of the players for long.

Delaware Township Wins LL Tilt, 9-8

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Aug. 21 (AP)—Delaware Township, N. J., runnerup last year, kicked off the Little League world series tonight with a 9-8 win over Eastchester, N. Y., in a game in which seven home runs were hit. The winners hit four of them.

Roy Hayman, of Delaware Twp., hit two, driving in four runs. But his performance was overshadowed by that of Jim Ciarlo for the losers. He also hit two and was credited with seven runs batted in.

Six of the RBI's were due to his homers. His seventh RBI came on an unorthodox bit of strategy. He came to bat in the sixth with the bases loaded, one out and his team trailing 9-7. Ciarlo was passed, forcing in a run. This strategy worked for the winners as the next two batters forced runners to put the game away.

Trojan Club Asks USC To Withdraw From Conference

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 21 (AP)—The Trojan Club, leading booster and money raising organization for University of Southern California athletes, today urged USC to withdraw from the Pacific Coast Conference.

The directors said that "the PCC during the past many years has adopted policies and taken actions against the best interests of the university."

The recent conference action, placing USC on probation for two years and fining the school $10,000 for alleged extra aid to athletes, prompted the booster club's resolution.

Trojan Club directors conceded that "the University has no alternative but to accept sanctions against itself and its athletes, and fulfill its 1956-57 schedules."

But in view of what they called the PCC's "pattern," the USC boosters urged withdrawal before the 1957 football season.

Southern Cal's seniors, like those of UCLA, will be permitted to play in only five games this fall by the conference's latest edict.

Fans 11 Batsmen, Holds New Yorkers Hitless Until 8th

NEW YORK, Aug. 21 (AP)—Herb Score handcuffed the mighty New York Yankees with two hits tonight, a double by Elston Howard in the eighth and a single by Mickey Mantle in the ninth, as the Cleveland Indians defeated the American League leaders 3-0 and shaved their margin to 7½ games.

Score, a $60,000 bonus baby in 1952, topped his fine performance by hitting a home run, his first in the majors, in the seventh inning with no one on.

Until Howard got his hit, the crowd of 39,187 sat hushed and tense. Score had come close to a no-hitter once before, last year when he shut out Baltimore on one hit, a single by Jim Dyck in the fourth.

Howard's hit was a clean one, a sizzling liner to left center. Neither Al Smith nor Rocky Colivito had a chance at it. But Howard died on second while Andy Carey grounded out, Mickey McDermott struck out and Hank Bauer also rolled out.

That released the pressure on Score. With one out in the ninth, Mantle, now only six games ahead of Babe Ruth's record home-run pace, bounced a single over George Strickland's head. But, he, too, got no further as Yogi Berra fouled out and Billy Martin fanned.

Otherwise, the Yanks' offense was nil. Score struck out 11, to run his strikeout total to 199, high in the majors. And he batted in two of the Indians' runs.

Baltimore Edges Kansas City, 4-3

BALTIMORE, Aug. 21 (AP) — Bob Boyd rapped a single to right field in the last of the ninth inning tonight to score Grady Hatton with the winning run for a 4-3 Baltimore victory over the Kansas City Athletics.

Hatton had walked to open the Oriole ninth and was sacrificed to second by Joe Ginsberg. Art Ditmar, fourth Kansas City pitcher, went to the mound and walked Dick Williams intentionally to set up a possible double play.

But Boyd, who returned to action only last week after being out with an injury almost three months, knocked out his third hit for his second run batted in. He also tripled in the second, and scored on George Kell's single, and singled home the tying run in the seventh.

George Zuverink, the Orioles' fireman hurler, pitched the last two innings and got credit for his sixth victory against five defeats. Starter Bill Wight gave way for a pinch hitter in the seventh.

NCAA Switches Coast Schools

DENVER, Aug. 21—(INS)—Big-time colleges UCLA and Washington U., already spanked by the Pacific Coast Conference for football violations of the "amateur rule," got another switching today from the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

The association's 18-member council, at a mid-year meeting in Denver, resolved to support the PCC's "prompt and vigorous disciplinary actions" against the Bruins and the Huskies in cases involving play-for-pay star gridders.

Only one other case was considered by the NCAA and that was Ohio State, now on probation in the Big Ten Conference. Final action was deferred until a supplementary investigation can be completed.

Redlegs Defeat Pittsburgh, 7-4

CINCINNATI, Aug. 21 (AP)—Cincinnati's Redlegs blew a 3-1 lead in the top of the eighth inning tonight, then roared back with four runs in their half of the inning to defeat Pittsburgh's Pirates 7-4.

The Redlegs spliced together four hits, including a homer, in the big eighth inning and got a hand in their scoring efforts through an error by Dale Long.

Long fired a wild throw to first on a grounder by Gus Bell, allowing Johnny Temple to sprint home from third with the tying run and putting Bell safe at first.

Gilliam Steals Home As Brooks Edge Cards, 2-1

Erskine Racks Up 9th Straight Win

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 21 (AP)—Junior Gilliam, collecting half Brooklyn's eight hits, stole home with the eventual decisive run tonight as Carl Erskine gained his ninth straight victory, 2-1, over the St. Louis Cardinals.

It was Erskine's 11th victory against six defeats. The two clubs executed eight doubleplays, one short of the major league record.

The little Dodger righthander was relieved by Don Bessent at the start of the eighth and Bessent stifled the Redbirds without a hit the last two innings.

Herm Wehmeier, big St. Louis righthander, pitched well in seeking his sixth straight victory but instead took his ninth defeat against eight victories.

Gilliam scored twice and had two doubles among his four hits.

Colts Through Experimenting With Rookies

Gained Only 20 Yards Against New Yorkers

WESTMINSTER, Md., Aug. 21 (AP)—Coach Weeb Ewbank of the Baltimore Colts said today the experimenting with rookies in preseason games is over.

"We'll start to think about a first team, now," Ewbank said as the Colts returned to the training camp following a 28-10 exhibition loss to the New York Giants in Boston last night.

The coach blamed the defeat on three factors:

"First, we experimented, using various player combinations and most of our rookies against a team that had a set lineup.

"Secondly, we played poorly (the Colts gained only 20 yards rushing).

"Thirdly, we were playing against a very good team that thinks it has a good chance to go all the way and may well do so."

Colt casualties included Gino Marchetti, Art Donovan, Doug Eggers, Lenny Moore and Dick Chorovich. Dr. Erwin Mayer, team physician, said none of the injuries will incapacitate any of the players for long.

Delaware Township Wins LL Tilt, 9-8

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Aug. 21 (AP)—Delaware Township, N. J., runnerup last year, kicked off the Little League world series tonight with a 9-8 win over Eastchester, N. Y., in a game in which seven home runs were hit. The winners hit four of them.

Roy Hayman, of Delaware Twp., hit two, driving in four runs. But his performance was overshadowed by that of Jim Ciarlo for the losers. He also hit two and was credited with seven runs batted in.

Six of the RBI's were due to his homers. His seventh RBI came on an unorthodox bit of strategy. He came to bat in the sixth with the bases loaded, one out and his team trailing 9-7. Ciarlo was passed, forcing in a run. This strategy worked for the winners as the next two batters forced runners to put the game away.

Trojan Club Asks USC To Withdraw From Conference

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 21 (AP)—The Trojan Club, leading booster and money raising organization for University of Southern California athletes, today urged USC to withdraw from the Pacific Coast Conference.

The directors said that "the PCC during the past many years has adopted policies and taken actions against the best interests of the university."

The recent conference action, placing USC on probation for two years and fining the school $10,000 for alleged extra aid to athletes, prompted the booster club's resolution.

Trojan Club directors conceded that "the University has no alternative but to accept sanctions against itself and its athletes, and fulfill its 1956-57 schedules."

But in view of what they called the PCC's "pattern," the USC boosters urged withdrawal before the 1957 football season.

Southern Cal's seniors, like those of UCLA, will be permitted to play in only five games this fall by the conference's latest edict.

Buhl Beats New York In Opener, 5-3

Notches 15th Win, Mathews Hits 29th, Ruben Gomez Loser

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 21 (AP)—Eddie Mathews' three-run homer in the first inning triggered a 5-3 victory by the National League leading Milwaukee Braves over last place New York today in the afternoon half of a day-night doubleheader.

Righthander Bob Buhl, still bothered a bit by a slowly healing chip fracture in the index finger of his pitching hand, registered his 15th victory of the campaign and second over the lowly Giants. He has lost only five.

Ruben Gomez, making his first start at County Stadium since his "hare and hound" run-in with Joe Adcock July 17, dropped his fifth game to the Braves. His overall record now is 6-14.

Mathews' 29th home run got the Braves off on the right foot before a crowd of 17,326. The victory was the Braves' 15th in 18 games with the Giants, their favorite "cousins" this year.

Johnny Logan beat out a high hopper behind the mound to open the Braves' three-run first. Henry Aaron then dropped a "texas league" single into short right. Mathews' line drive into the right-field seats near the foul pole cleared the bases.

The Giants, reaching Buhl for three straight singles by Jackie Brandt, Red Schoendienst, and Willie Mays, scored two runs in the sixth. Mays drove in Brandt and Schoendienst scored while the Braves were completing a double play.

Chicago Cubs Hand Roberts 14th Setback

King Batting Star In 6 To 4 Triumph

CHICAGO, Aug. 21 (AP)—Jim King drove in three runs with a pair of homers today to lead the Chicago Cubs to a 6-4 victory over the Philadelphia Phils, whose Robin Roberts absorbed his 14th loss.

Roberts, who has 14 victories, wasn't around at the finish before 6,758 Wrigley Field fans. He gave way to Ron Negray in the sixth after the Cubs had piled up a 5-1 bulge with three runs in the fifth.

Solly Drake doubled, Don Hoak singled him home and, after Dee Fondy struck out, King parked his No. 11 homer on the right field catwalk.

The Phils shook up Sam Jones with two runs in the sixth on Granny Hamner's double, a walk to pinch-hitter Frank Baumholtz and Richie Ashburn's triple.

King blasted his second homer off Ben Flowers, the third Phil hurler, to lead off the eighth.

Clingan Rests Arm Henry's 8th Season

By C. V. BURNS

REVIVAL of the Cumberland Valley Athletic League brings back memories of the days when Allegany High School was represented in the circuit for 15 consecutive years and Fort Hill was a member of the football circuit for seven straight seasons.

There were seven schools in the league in 1929 when Allegany made its debut and Walter L. Bowers' eleven opened with a 20-0 victory over Handley High School in Winchester. Allegany wound up the season with a 3-2-1 record. Other wins were scored over Charles Town, 40-0, and Berkeley Springs, 52-6, the losses came at the hands of Hageerstown, 6-0, and Martinsburg, 18-12, while Waynesboro was battled to a 13-13 deadlock. Eddie Semler coached Hagerstown's championship team that season.

In 1928, the year before Allegany went into the league, the Campers had three topnotch Pennsylvania schools on its schedule, namely, Johnstown, Ferndale and Altoona. The Campers beat Ferndale, 19-6, and lost to the Johnstown Trojans, 19-13 and Altoona, 6-0.

Five Allegany teams coached by Herman Ball—1936, 1938, 1939, 1941 and 1942 — were champions or co-champions. Bert Harbert's 1934 Camper eleven tied Waynesboro and Handley for the title.

Waynesboro, a charter member, dropped out after the 1937 season.

It was in 1937 that Fort Hill High School made its debut in the football circuit and was clobbered at Waynesboro to the tune of 67-6.

Fort Hill also played in the C.V.A. basketball league.

Handley, Martinsburg, Frederick, Hagerstown, Allegany and Fort Hill are the schools that will battle it out in league play this year. Frederick is the only school that never has been in the grid loop before.

1929—Hageerstown
1930—Hagerstown
1931—Waynesboro
1932—Waynesboro
1933—Waynesboro
1934—Allegany, Waynesboro and handley tied
1935—Waynesboro and Hagerstown, tied
1936—Allegany and Waynesboro tied
1937—Waynesboro
1938—Allegany
1939—Allegany
1940—Fort Hill
1941—Allegany
1942—Allegany
1943—Hagerstown and Fort Hill tied

IF LaSalle High School desires to fill an open date (Oct. 19-20) the Explorers might try Altoona Catholic High School which is seeking a game for that weekend. The Marauders beat LaSalle last year by the score of 26-18.

JIM CLINGAN, Sally League pitcher from Cumberland, is spending a two weeks' vacation in Canada after being advised by the Baltimore Orioles to refrain from pitching any more this year.

Clingan suffered a right shoulder separation in a collision with an infielder of the opposing team while attempting to break up a double play in a game about six weeks ago. He had won seven and lost two for the Columbus (Ga.) Club at the time he was injured.

Jim was instructed to "save his arm by resting it" and report to the Orioles' training camp next spring. He was paid in full for the remainder of the 1956 season.

Dick Fitzgerald, who won 10 and lost 4 for Columbus, also was sent home to Narbeth, Pa., with a case of hepatitis. That's a liver aliment.

TONY RUSSO, native Staten Islander, who now calls Baltimore his home, is tied with Joe Snyder for the lead in the jockeys' race for the first half of the 12-day meeting in Hagerstown. Each rider has six winners.

C. McKee has four winning mounts and Willie Clark, R. E. Ford and F. Green have three each. Clark was top rider at Fairgo. Hagerstown and Timonium last year.

Russo tied Mike Sorrentino for top honors here in 1954 with 11 wins. Tony was aboard five winners here in 1955.

MEL HENRY is beginning his eighth season as head football coach at Hagerstown High School. Over seven seasons his Hubs have won 33, lost 25 and played six ties.

When Mel was at Fort Hill (1943-1945) his teams won 22, lost three and tied one. The three losses and the one tie came in games with Allegany High. One win was scored over the Campers.

The Hubs' 1955 record was 7-2-1. Twenty-four veterans are returning for this year's team which plays York, Westminster, Allegany and Winchester away and Chambersburg, Fort Hill, Martinsburg, Baltimore Southern and Frederick at home.

J. RAY HULL, former High grid mentor, will be one of Head Coach Robert Wrenshall's assistants at Brentwood (Pa.) High School of the WPIAL this season. The others are Sam Diaconis and James Trovato.

Hull will be head coach of junior high basketball at Brentwood.

MARK N. FUNK, PIAA executive director at Harrisburg, reports that 740 of the 1,069 member schools in Pennsylvania have registered for football this year.

More than 50,000 boys will engage in interscholastic football throughout the Keystone State.

Frostburg Giants Beat Red Sox, 7-1

FROSTBURG, Aug. 21 — Allen Eisel yielded only one, a single by Wayne Harper, and struck out 15 batsmen as the Giants defeated the Red Sox in the Frostburg Little League playoffs today.

Eisel also accounted for two of the winners' six hits, a homer and two-bagger. Beeman also rapped a double for the Giants.

The Yankees defeated the Pirates, 5-4, in their opening game.

The Orioles and Yankees will play here Wednesday at 6 p .m. Score:

RED SOX	000 100—1 1 0

R. Harper and W. Harper, Pantuso, Eisel and McKenzie. HR—Eisel (Giants).

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 21 (AP) —The skies opened over Longwood's grass courts again today, forcing a delay in the National Doubles Tennis Tournament for the second straight year.

BOSTON, Aug. 21 (AP)—Tonight's scheduled Boston Red Sox-Chicago White Sox baseball game postponed because of rain will be played tomorrow as part of a day-night split doubleheader.

Potomac Valley Goes To Finals

Brelsford Beats Stringtown, 10-0

Potomac Valley's Old Germans advanced to the playoff finals in the County Softball League by blanking Stringtown yesterday on the latter's field by the score of 10-0 behind the one-hit pitching performance of Junior Brelsford.

Joe Sager's infield single in the first inning was the lone safety yielded by Brelsford.

Manager Jimmy Allen's pennant-winning club which copped the first game of the series by the score of 9-3 rapped Herb Devore and Cliff Clites for 10 hits. Johnny Price headed the assault with a triple, double and single, Lease smacked a pair of two-baggers and Basilio had two singles.

Today's victory was the 21st of the season for Brelsford. Score:

POTOMAC VALLEY	422 011 0—10 10 1
STRINGTOWN	000 000 0— 0 1 2

Red Sox, Athletics Bag Series Openers In DD Loop Playoffs

The Red Sox whipped the Senators, 6-2, and the Athletics trimmed the Phillies, 6-3, as the Dapper Dan Little League playoffs got under way yesterday at Penn Avenue Field.

In the opener of the twin bill, Gary Bartik had a no-hitter going until the final frame when Harvey of the [illegible] chalked up an infield single for his team's lone safety. Bartik was as wild as the proverbial March hare, issuing 12 bases on balls while his strikeout victims totaled eight.

Homer Hardinger had three hits, Harold Hardinger hit safely twice and Pat Wilson smacked a two-bagger for the Sox. Kaplon, losing pitcher, fanned seven and issued only one pass.

Wellington Donahue fired the third strike past 13 Phillies as the A's won the second game. He limited the Phils to five hits, including a triple and two singles by Smith. Kenny Davis and Jan Withrow shared four of the A's seven blows. One of Davis's wallops was a two-bagger.

The series will resume Thursday night at Penn Avenue with the A's and Phillies clashing at 6 p. m., and the Senators and Red Sox at 8 p. m. The scores:

LaVale Orioles, Cresaptown Take Playoff Battles

LaVale's Orioles became a finalist and Cresaptown's Eagles squared their series with Barrelville at one win each in playoff battles staged yesterday in the Pen-Mar Little League.

The Orioles made it two straight over Ellerslie by winning to the tune of 7-3 behind the three-hit twirling of Wharton. DeHart banged a triple and two singles in three trips, Wharton walloped a triple and double and Klosterman garnered a double and single to spark the LaVale attack. Jim Cook's triple was among the hits yielded by Wharton.

Bill Lovett and Roger Flanagan turned back Barrelville with two safeties as Cresaptown's Eagles won, 9-0, and evened up matters for a 3-0 setback suffered in the series opener.

The Eagles collected 10 hits with Urner Stouffer pacing the attack with a double and two singles. Jimmy Martin laruped a double and single, Kermit Clem a triple and Flanagan a two-bagger for the victors. Barrelville's hits were credited to Uhl and Linn.

Cresaptown won the toss and will play host to Barrelville in the "rubber" game of the series Thursday at 6 p. m. The scores:

Buhl Beats New York In Opener, 5-3

Notches 15th Win, Mathews Hits 29th, Ruben Gomez Loser

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 21 (AP)—Eddie Mathews' three-run homer in the first inning triggered a 5-3 victory by the National League leading Milwaukee Braves over last place New York today in the afternoon half of a day-night doubleheader.

Righthander Bob Buhl, still bothered a bit by a slowly healing chip fracture in the index finger of his pitching hand, registered his 15th victory of the campaign and second over the lowly Giants. He has lost only five.

Ruben Gomez, making his first start at County Stadium since his "hare and hound" run-in with Joe Adcock July 17, dropped his fifth game to the Braves. His overall record now is 6-14.

Mathews' 29th home run got the Braves off on the right foot before a crowd of 17,326. The victory was the Braves' 15th in 18 games with the Giants, their favorite "cousins" this year.

Johnny Logan beat out a high hopper behind the mound to open the Braves' three-run first. Henry Aaron then dropped a "texas league" single into short right. Mathews' line drive into the right-field seats near the foul pole cleared the bases.

The Giants, reaching Buhl for three straight singles by Jackie Brandt, Red Schoendienst, and Willie Mays, scored two runs in the sixth. Mays drove in Brandt and Schoendienst scored while the Braves were completing a double play.

King Batting Star In 6 To 4 Triumph

CHICAGO, Aug. 21 (AP)—Jim King drove in three runs with a pair of homers today to lead the Chicago Cubs to a 6-4 victory over the Philadelphia Phils, whose Robin Roberts absorbed his 14th loss.

Roberts, who has 14 victories, wasn't around at the finish before 6,758 Wrigley Field fans. He gave way to Ron Negray in the sixth after the Cubs had piled up a 5-1 bulge with three runs in the fifth.

Solly Drake doubled, Don Hoak singled him home and, after Dee Fondy struck out, King parked his No. 11 homer on the right field catwalk.

The Phils shook up Sam Jones with two runs in the sixth on Granny Hamner's double, a walk to pinch-hitter Frank Baumholtz and Richie Ashburn's triple.

Clingan Rests Arm Henry's 8th Season

By C. V. BURNS

REVIVAL of the Cumberland Valley Athletic League brings back memories of the days when Allegany High School was represented in the circuit for 15 consecutive years and Fort Hill was a member of the football circuit for seven straight seasons.

There were seven schools in the league in 1929 when Allegany made its debut and Walter L. Bowers' eleven opened with a 20-0 victory over Handley High School in Winchester. Allegany wound up the season with a 3-2-1 record. Other wins were scored over Charles Town, 40-0, and Berkeley Springs, 52-6, the losses came at the hands of Hageerstown, 6-0, and Martinsburg, 18-12, while Waynesboro was battled to a 13-13 deadlock. Eddie Semler coached Hagerstown's championship team that season.

In 1928, the year before Allegany went into the league, the Campers had three topnotch Pennsylvania schools on its schedule, namely, Johnstown, Ferndale and Altoona. The Campers beat Ferndale, 19-6, and lost to the Johnstown Trojans, 19-13 and Altoona, 6-0.

Five Allegany teams coached by Herman Ball—1936, 1938, 1939, 1941 and 1942 — were champions or co-champions. Bert Harbert's 1934 Camper eleven tied Waynesboro and Handley for the title.

Waynesboro, a charter member, dropped out after the 1937 season.

It was in 1937 that Fort Hill High School made its debut in the football circuit and was clobbered at Waynesboro to the tune of 67-6.

Fort Hill also played in the C.V.A. basketball league.

Handley, Martinsburg, Frederick, Hagerstown, Allegany and Fort Hill are the schools that will battle it out in league play this year. Frederick is the only school that never has been in the grid loop before.

1929—Hageerstown
1930—Hagerstown
1931—Waynesboro
1932—Waynesboro
1933—Waynesboro
1934—Allegany, Waynesboro and Handley tied
1935—Waynesboro and Hagerstown tied
1936—Allegany and Waynesboro tied
1937—Waynesboro
1938—Allegany
1939—Allegany
1940—Fort Hill
1941—Allegany
1942—Allegany
1943—Hagerstown and Fort Hill tied

IF LaSalle High School desires to fill an open date (Oct. 19-20) the Explorers might try Altoona Catholic High School which is seeking a game for that weekend. The Marauders beat LaSalle last year by the score of 26-18.

JIM CLINGAN, Sally League pitcher from Cumberland, is spending a two weeks' vacation in Canada after being advised by the Baltimore Orioles to refrain from pitching any more this year.

Clingan suffered a right shoulder separation in a collision with an infielder of the opposing team while attempting to break up a double play in a game about six weeks ago. He had won seven and lost two for the Columbus (Ga.) Club at the time he was injured.

Jim was instructed to "save his arm by resting it" and report to the Orioles' training camp next spring. He was paid in full for the remainder of the 1956 season.

Dick Fitzgerald, who won 10 and lost 4 for Columbus, also was sent home to Narbeth, Pa., with a case of hepatitis. That's a liver aliment.

TONY RUSSO, native Staten Islander, who now calls Baltimore his home, is tied with Joe Snyder for the lead in the jockeys' race for the first half of the 12-day meeting in Hagerstown. Each rider has six winners.

C. McKee has four winning mounts and Willie Clark, R. E. Ford and F. Green have three each. Clark was top rider at Fairgo. Hagerstown and Timonium last year.

MEL HENRY is beginning his eighth season as head football coach at Hagerstown High School. Over seven seasons his Hubs have won 33, lost 25 and played six ties.

When Mel was at Fort Hill (1943-1945) his teams won 22, lost three and tied one. The three losses and the one tie came in games with Allegany High. One win was scored over the Campers.

The Hubs' 1955 record was 7-2-1. Twenty-four veterans are returning for this year's team which plays York, Westminster, Allegany and Winchester away and Chambersburg, Fort Hill, Martinsburg, Baltimore Southern and Frederick at home.

J. RAY HULL, former High grid mentor, will be one of Head Coach Robert Wrenshall's assistants at Brentwood (Pa.) High School of the WPIAL this season. The others are Sam Diaconis and James Trovato.

MARK N. FUNK, PIAA executive director at Harrisburg, reports that 740 of the 1,069 member schools in Pennsylvania have registered for football this year.

Frostburg Giants Beat Red Sox, 7-1

FROSTBURG, Aug. 21 — Allen Eisel yielded only one, a single by Wayne Harper, and struck out 15 batsmen as the Giants defeated the Red Sox in the Frostburg Little League playoffs today.

The Orioles and Yankees will play here Wednesday at 6 p .m. Score:

RED SOX	000 100—1 1 0

R. Harper and W. Harper, Pantuso. Eisel and McKenzie. HR—Eisel (Giants).

Net Meet Delayed

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 21 (AP)—The skies opened over Longwood's grass courts again today, forcing a delay in the National Doubles Tennis Tournament for the second straight year.

A steady downpour washed out second-day play of the 75th annual competition, but officials were relieved by a forecast of clear and warm weather for tomorrow.

Game Is Postponed

Red Sox, Athletics Bag Series Openers In DD Loop Playoffs

The Red Sox whipped the Senators, 6-2, and the Athletics trimmed the Phillies, 6-3, as the Dapper Dan Little League playoffs got under way yesterday at Penn Avenue Field.

In the opener of the twin bill, Gary Bartik had a no-hitter going until the final frame when Harvey of the [illegible] chalked up an infield single for his team's lone safety. Bartik was as wild as the proverbial March hare, issuing 12 bases on balls while his strikeout victims totaled eight.

Homer Hardinger had three hits, Harold Hardinger hit safely twice and Pat Wilson smacked a two-bagger for the Sox. Kaplon, losing pitcher, fanned seven and issued only one pass.

Wellington Donahue fired the third strike past 13 Phillies as the A's won the second game. He limited the Phils to five hits, including a triple and two singles by Smith. Kenny Davis and Jan Withrow shared four of the A's seven blows. One of Davis's wallops was a two-bagger.

Rams Threaten To Strike, Ask Pay For Exhibitions

Vets Demanding $75, Rookie $50 Weekly

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 21 (AP) — Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League says the threat of a strike by Los Angeles Rams' players was all a misunderstanding.

"The whole thing has been straightened out and I'm sure the players are satisfied that the league and the owners are more than willing to see that they get fair treatment," said the commissioner.

Bell intervened yesterday when Ram players demanded $75 a week for veterans and $50 weekly for rookies during the exhibition season. The players threatened not to play in Friday's exhibition game against the Cleveland Browns unless the money was forthcoming.

"I talked with several of the veteran players of the Rams yesterday on the telephone and tried to straighten matters out. We'll discuss the matter more fully when the season is over," Bell said.

The National Football League, as in the case of baseball, does not pay salaries until the regular season opens. NEW YORK, Aug. 21 (INS)—Got a good laugh out of a news photo the other day.

Behind him stood a slightly older quarterback whom we immediately recognized. He was Amos Alonzo Stagg, who celebrated his 94th birthday last Thursday

We don't know where Stagg is at them oment, but we'd be willing to make a small wager that he is plotting a new football offensive or defensive play.

The man surely rates as one of the athletic marvels of all time, and we venture to say he has done more for young men than any dozen professors you can name.

He was born at West Orange, N. J., just before the second battle of Bull Run. The date to be exact was Aug. 16, 1862.

At Yale he was on Walter Camp's All-America team as an end, and as a pitcher he was so good that the New York Giants offered him $4,200 to turn pro, a staggering offer for those days.

The records show how well he succeeded. He stayed there for 40 years until he was 70, when the university forced him to retire, much against his will.

You younger folk may think George Halas' Chicago Bears were the original monsters of the midway. If so, you are mistaken. That title was earned by Stagg's great teams in the early years of this century.

Stagg was the first to use an unbalanced line, a man in motion, fake ball handling and spread formations.

A great many years ago, we visited him after he had had a serious operation in a New York hospital. He spoke of the old days of his master quarterback, Walter Eckersall, and the great teams he had had.

We thought then his coaching days were over. What a joke on us. After leaving Chicago he went to the College of the Pacific for a new coaching career and 11 years later when he was 81 he was named coach of the year.

Once again he became "to old" so next he turned up helping his son, Amos, Jr., for several years to turn out good football teams but better young citizens at Susquehanna University.

When is he going to quit? We wouldn't care to guess because the man apparently is indestructible. But we hope that 20 years from now, we'll find him showing some youngester how to throw a block on a charging end.

Nashua Is Out Of Saturday's Saratoga Race

Two Races Planned Before Retirement

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 21 (AP)—Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons decided today that Nashua would not start in the $50,000 added Saratoga Handicap saturday although the millionaire horse apparently was fully recovered from his most recent stomach ache.

It is the second time this month that an attack of the colic had upset Nashua's racing plans, but Mr. Fitz did not indicate whether or not the illness might affect two other races scheduled for Belmont Park in the fall.

The horse is all right but I've decided the race is just too close, so he won't be out there Saturday," the 82-year-old trainer said.

"I'll have to walk him today, galloped him tomorrow and then there just isn't time to do any more so he'll have to miss the race Saturday."

On Aug. 11, two hours before he was scheduled to start in the $100,000 Atlantic City Handicap, Nashua became ill and was withdrawn from the race worth $65,000 to the winner.

If all goes well, Nashua will now have only two more races, the $75,000-added Woodward Stakes Sept. 29 and the $50,000-added Jockey Club Gold Cup Oct. 13, both at Belmont Park. After that he is to be retired to stud.

Berrios And Elorde To Fight On Coast

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 21 (AP)—Flash Elorde of the Philippines pits his southpaw style against the two-fisted attack of Puerto Rico's Miguel Berrios tomorrow night in a battle of ranking featherweight boxers.

"If he gives me trouble it will be with his right, but I will give him a good fight," was about all the determined Elorde would say as he wound up his drills for the bout which will be broadcast and televised nationally (ABC) starting at 7 p.m., Pacific Daylight Time.

Cards Charged With Signing College Frosh

Protest Is Filed By Oregon Coach

EUGENE, Ore., Aug. 21 (AP) — The University of Oregon baseball coach protested today against the signing of a freshman pitcher by the St. Louis Cardinals.

Earlier this summer, Ralph Coleman, Oregon State College baseball coach, also had protested the signing of a freshman from his school by the Cardinals.

In each case, the scout who recruited the players was Tony Governor, Palo Alto, Calif. He signed Stan Thompson, a left-handed pitcher from Nyssa, Ore., last weekend.

"The signing of Thompson by Governor and the Cardinals is another in a series of crippling blows which have been dealt college baseball in the last few years by some professional organizations and this one man in particular," sai Don Kirsch, the Oregon coach.

The Oregon State freshman signed earlier in the year was Curt Jantze, of Salem, Ore.

Mt. Savage Club Cops Pony Loop Playoff Crown

Tops Ellerslie, 2-0, Sweeps Four Games

Mt. Savage won the playoff title in the Bi-State Pony Baseball League by defeating Ellerslie yesterday in Mt. Savage by the score of 2-0.

The victory gave Mt. Savage a clean sweep of the four playoff contests. Cresaptown's pennant-winning Lions were eliminated, 3-0 and 4-0 and Ellerslie was ushered out in 5-3 and 2-0 contests.

Leroy Morris posted his third straight win of the playoffs by limiting Ellerslie to four hits in today's game. Two of the bingles were credited to Don Lowery. The Mt. Savage hurler fanned eight. Roger Cook also twirled a 4-hitter for Ellerslie and fanned ten. Bobby Green's double was among the four safeties.

Mt. Savage scored its two runs in the sixth inning after two out when Fay Often walked, advanced to third on Green's two-bagger and both runners crossed the platter when Smith got a life on an error.

The Pony Leaguers will play the Oldtimers in a game at Mt. Savage Friday at 5:30 p. m. Yesterday's score:

Rams Threaten To Strike, Ask Pay For Exhibitions

Vets Demanding $75, Rookie $50 Weekly

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 21 (AP) — Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League says the threat of a strike by Los Angeles Rams' players was all a misunderstanding.

"The whole thing has been straightened out and I'm sure the players are satisfied that the league and the owners are more than willing to see that they get fair treatment," said the commissioner.

Bell intervened yesterday when Ram players demanded $75 a week for veterans and $50 weekly for rookies during the exhibition season. The players threatened not to play in Friday's exhibition game against the Cleveland Browns unless the money was forthcoming.

"I talked with several of the veteran players of the Rams yesterday on the telephone and tried to straighten matters out. We'll discuss the matter more fully when the season is over," Bell said.

The National Football League, as in the case of baseball, does not pay salaries until the regular season opens. Players are given room and board, laundry money and some other incidentals during the training season. Bell says all the clubs have different methods of handling the training camp expenses.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for vacationing Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 21 (INS)—Via transAtlantic telephone, Jerry Wald today finalized the deal with the widow of Romain Rolland for the screen rights to the classic "Jean Christophe." Not scheduled as the first production Wald puts into action on his new 20th Century Fox pact, it certainly rates as the most ambitious.

"Jean Christophe" won the Nobel Prize for literature for its author in 1915. If you ask me, it's going to take a bit of doing—even more than "War and Peace" to condense to screen length. "Jean Christophe" was originally published in 10 volumes.

Vera Miles is the girl they want for Frank Sinatra's leading lady in "The Joker Is Wild." She'd play the Martha Stewart part in the Joe E. Lewis biography.

But there's a serious hitch on starting dates. Vera is under personal contract to Alfred Hitchcock and he has her for "Amongst the Dead" starting in October. Producer Sam Briskin has "Joker" rolling in September. They might solve the overlapping schedules by putting Vera in two pictures at once. It's been done.

Louella Parsons cables from Paris: "June Allyson and Dick Powell celebrated their eleventh anniversary with a dinner at Maxims. Kitty and Mervyn Le Roy were there. Countess Gaetani, Johnny Haskell and I and about six other guests. Dick's gift to June was a big diamond pin and she really sparkled! Mr. and Mrs. John Stires (he's with U-I) gave a cocktail party before the dinner.

"Gary Cooper came to see me at the George V Hotel. He has had intestinal flu and has been very sick. His visit to me was his first day out in a week. Incidentally, his co-star Audrey Hepburn has the cutest haircut. It's sort of a modification of the page boy and it's the talk of Paris."

More from the boss:

"Had luncheon with Gloria Swanson at the Pre-Catalan in the Bois de Boulogne. It would have been very pleasant only a swarm of bees decided they liked my luncheon and I decided to give it to them rather than incur their anger.

"Gloria has a boy friend—and I'm going to find out his name. She isn't talking.

"She has let her hair go gray which has the effect of making her face look even younger. She's doing very well with the dresses she designs and professionally she's teamed up with Eric Von Stroheim to revive "Queen Kelly." her old picture which was never released. It was a silent—but she's having it narrated."

HOLLYWOOD in shorts:

Frank Sinatra's three children, Nancy Jr., Frankie and Tina have joined him in New York and tomorrow Frankie takes his brood to Atlantic City where he's singing—if he can. Old laryngitis really had him down over the weekend.

The Pan Berman divorce settlement, after 30 years of marriage, is said to be $1,000,000.

The deep sympathy of all Hollywood goes to George Delacorte, famed magazine publisher, his son Al, and the other children, on the death of Mrs. Delacorte following a long illness. The Delacortes were a devoted family and their many friends in the motion picture industry share their grief.

Mrs. Leif Erickson, who didn't get in on Leif's trip to France for "The Vintage," is evening up the financial score by redecorating the house and putting in a pool.

King Kennedy's cocktail party—showing off the new house decorated by Bill Hendrix, was a charming affair with guests lingering on past the 9 o'clock curfew. Don't they always out here?

Bing Crosby wired his tailor Bud Watson to whip up his fall wardrobe on the conservative side. Well, that's a switch.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for vacationing Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 21 (INS)—Via transAtlantic telephone, Jerry Wald today finalized the deal with the widow of Romain Rolland for the screen rights to the classic "Jean Christophe." Not scheduled as the first production Wald puts into action on his new 20th Century Fox pact, it certainly rates as the most ambitious.

"Jean Christophe" won the Nobel Prize for literature for its author in 1915. If you ask me, it's going to take a bit of doing—even more than "War and Peace" to condense to screen length. "Jean Christophe" was originally published in 10 volumes.

Vera Miles is the girl they want for Frank Sinatra's leading lady in "The Joker Is Wild." She'd play the Martha Stewart part in the Joe E. Lewis biography.

But there's a serious hitch on starting dates. Vera is under personal contract to Alfred Hitchcock and he has her for "Amongst the Dead" starting in October. Producer Sam Briskin has "Joker" rolling in September. They might solve the overlapping schedules by putting Vera in two pictures at once. It's been done.

Louella Parsons cables from Paris: "June Allyson and Dick Powell celebrated their eleventh anniversary with a dinner at Maxims. Kitty and Mervyn Le Roy were there. Countess Gaetani, Johnny Haskell and I and about six other guests. Dick's gift to June was a big diamond pin and she really sparkled! Mr. and Mrs. John Stires (he's with U-I) gave a cocktail party before the dinner.

"Gary Cooper came to see me at the George V Hotel. He has had intestinal flu and has been very sick. His visit to me was his first day out in a week. Incidentally, his co-star Audrey Hepburn has the cutest haircut. It's sort of a modification of the page boy and it's the talk of Paris."

More from the boss:

"Had luncheon with Gloria Swanson at the Pre-Catalan in the Bois de Boulogne. It would have been very pleasant only a swarm of bees decided they liked my luncheon and I decided to give it to them rather than incur their anger.

"Gloria has a boy friend—and I'm going to find out his name. She isn't talking.

"She has let her hair go gray which has the effect of making her face look even younger. She's doing very well with the dresses she designs and professionally she's teamed up with Eric Von Stroheim to revive "Queen Kelly," her old picture which was never released. It was a silent—but she's having it narrated."

HOLLYWOOD in shorts:

Frank Sinatra's three children, Nancy Jr., Frankie and Tina have joined him in New York and tomorrow Frankie takes his brood to Atlantic City where he's singing—if he can. Old laryngitis really had him down over the weekend.

The Pan Berman divorce settlement, after 30 years of marriage, is said to be $1,000,000.

The deep sympathy of all Hollywood goes to George Delacorte, famed magazine publisher, his son Al, and the other children, on the death of Mrs. Delacorte following a long illness. The Delacortes were a devoted family and their many friends in the motion picture industry share their grief.

Mrs. Leif Erickson, who didn't get in on Leif's trip to France for "The Vintage," is evening up the financial score by redecorating the house and putting in a pool.

King Kennedy's cocktail party—showing off the new house decorated by Bill Hendrix, was a charming affair with guests lingering on past the 9 o'clock curfew. Don't they always out here?

Bing Crosby wired his tailor Bud Watson to whip up his fall wardrobe on the conservative side. Well, that's a switch.

That's all.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	Pass	1 spade	Pass
4 spades	Pass	4 no trump	Pass
5 hearts	Pass	5 no trump	Pass
6 hearts	Pass	7 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Jack of hearts.

East and South engaged in an interesting duel in the hand shown today. Each put up a creditable performance, but in the end the decision went as usual to the side with the superior forces.

North, holding a hand slightly too strong for an opening bid of one no trump, started with an introductory call of one diamond. South responded one spade and North, with 20 points in support of that suit, decided to raise directly to four. Observe that a leap to three spades is not sufficient in this situation, for if South's spade response had been made on some five or six point holding, he would be at perfect liberty to pass, for the jump raise by opening bidder is not forcing at this point. South had the complete assurance of a small slam, but decided to delve further into the situation. When he uncovered only two kings, his leap to seven spades was rather on the daring side.

West opened the jack of hearts, which was taken in dummy with the king, a heart was returned to the ace and a heart ruffed in dummy with the jack of spades. East, of course, let go the low club. Declarer returned to his hand with the eight of trumps and ruffed the remaining heart with the ace of trumps. East knew that he could not afford to part with a diamond and to discard the jack of clubs would surely give away the show, so he parted with a card which was more expendible, namely, one of his trumps. Declarer then cashed the remaining three spades in his own hand, discarding two clubs from dummy and East found himself in an impossible position. To throw a diamond was obviously futile so hoping that partner had the queen of clubs, he let go the jack. Declarer then cashed the ace of clubs, and the battle was over.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

E M N R , M V W P G , W R B P W K F B J W L O G J Y D G P U M H M L G — J N M K .

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: TO SAY THE TRUTH, REASON AND LOVE KEEP LITTLE COMPANY TOGETHER . . . — SHAKESPEARE.

Touring Writers

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 21 (AP)—Newspaper and magazine writers representing the Overseas Press Club of New York have arrived in Argentina on their 28-day tour of Latin America. The group came here from Montevideo. After a round of visits to newspapers and Argentine government officials, they will leave Wednesday for Santiago, Chile.

Plea For Tax Cut

OTSU, Japan, Aug. 21 (AP)—The Red Light District Operators Assn. has filed a plea for lower taxes. It says extra funds are needed to rehabilitate their girls after a new anti prostitution law becomes partially effective next spring. "In addition," the group complained, "many of our girls have run away since the law was passed, leaving behind debts."

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

E M N R , M V W P G , W R B P W K F
B J W L O G J Y D G P U M H M L G — J N M K .

Touring Writers

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 21 (AP)—Newspaper and magazine writers representing the Overseas Press Club of New York have arrived in Argentina on their 28-day tour of Latin America. The group came here from Montevideo. After a round of visits to newspapers and Argentine government officials, they will leave Wednesday for Santiago, Chile.

Plea For Tax Cut

OTSU, Japan, Aug. 21 (AP)—The Red Light District Operators Assn. has filed a plea for lower taxes. It says extra funds are needed to rehabilitate their girls after a new anti prostitution law becomes partially effective next spring. "In addition," the group complained, "many of our girls have run away since the law was passed, leaving behind debts."

Large Crowd Visits Fairgo As Sun Shines

Kiddies' Matinee Brings Youngsters

The sun shone yesterday and an estimated 9,000 persons from many points in the Tri-State area traveled to Fairgo to visit the 39th annual Cumberland Fair, rained out of its starting date Monday.

Judging was the feature of the morning and afternoon hours and ribbons were displayed on many exhibits throughout the fairgrounds later in the day.

Yesterday was the first of two kiddies' matinee planned this week and Harry J. Barton, Fair superintendent, estimated that about 3,000 persons visited the premises in the afternoon. Last night another 6,000 were estimated on the grounds despite some cool temperatures and mud which remained from Monday's all-day rain.

Two Matinees

In past years Wednesday afternoon was the kiddies' day at the Fair but this year Barton decided to give the kids two treats with matinees on both Tuesday and Thursday.

The grandstand was about three-fourths filled last night for the first of three nocturnal performances of the variety show from a stage erected on the track in front of the stands.

Five attractive young girls from various points in the Tri-State area were introduced from the stage last night before the first night performance of the show. One of the five will be crowned Miss Fairgo Friday night. Patrons at the show are given ballots and are requested to vote for one of the five who will reign during the September 12-25 race meeting here. The winner will be named Friday.

Five Candidates

Candidates are Miss Helen Paxton, Williams Road, Allegany County Farm Queen; Miss Betty Bittinger, Loch Lynn, Garrett County Farm Queen; Miss Patricia Western, Wardensville, W. Va., West Virginia Poultry Queen; Miss Helen Kathleen Mills, Jenners, Pa., Somerset County Maple Queen, and Miss Louise Pyles of Keyser, Mineral County Farm Queen.

The 4-H Dairy Calf Club, with some 50 head of cattle on the grounds, will have its day at the fair today. The club cattle will be judged starting at 9 a. m.

Scenes At Cumberland Fair

Harry O. Harbaugh, top left, of Hagerstown, is shown with his three-year-old Holstein cow, Whispering Cedars High F, who was adjudged grand champion Holstein cow at the Cumberland Fair yesterday. She was a 1955 grand champion at Hagerstown, Huntington, W. Va., and Cumberland, and was a winner in a three-county field in Hagerstown earlier this year.

Yesterday was the first of two kiddies' matinees at Fairgo and the appearance of the youngsters in the toy automobile ride is evidence enough that they had a good time. Another matinee is planned tomorrow for the children.

Pines Bute, a three-year-old sow, has been having a busy time at the Cumberland Fair. She dropped her fourth litter Monday at Fairgo. Seven of the eight pigs in the litter survived and are proving quite an attraction at the 39th annual fair. The sow and pigs belong to Phil Carder, a member of the Oldtown FFA.

Dairy, Beef Cattle Judged At Local Fair

Blue Ribbons Are Awarded

Outstanding registered beef and dairy cattle from Allegany County and the surrounding counties was judged yesterday as the 39th annual Cumberland Fair moved into full swing.

In the Ayrshire dairy breed, William I. Shank of Hagerstown showed the grand champion cow. Samuel J. Diehl of Bedford County, Pa., exhibited the grand champion bull.

Robert Moore of Mt. Savage, a 4-H Club member, had the junior yearling champion bull. Walter J. Hahn of Frederick judged the Ayrshires.

S. Braden King of Boonsboro won blue ribbons for the grand champion bull and cow in the Jersey dairy cattle competition. John Dietrich, dairy cattle specialist at the University of Maryland, judged the Jerseys.

In the Guernsey competition Ralph McCauley of Washington County exhibited both the grand champion cow and bull. Herbert Snyder of Union Bridge was the judge. Another Washington Countian, Harry Harbaugh, showed the grand champion bull and cow in the Holstein breed. Ira Brooks of Pinto also exhibited Hilstein cattle.

James Bowers and son of the Bow-Ayr Farms of Fort Ashby showed the grand champion bull and cow in the Hereford beef cattle breed. W. G. Merrells of the Longview Farm at Burlington, W. Va., exhibited the grand champion Aberdeen-Angus female and bull.

Unusual Cumberland Fair Described By Englishman

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

A different kind of Cumberland Fair where bookmakers took large bets as to which hound dog would follow a scent over a mountainside and return to the fairgrounds first was described here yesterday.

The description came from Alfred Houlker of Manchester, England, who arrived in this country six weeks ago and has been working as an auctioneer in one of the new attractions with the Prell's Shows at the 39th annual Cumberland Fair which is running here all this week.

Like Queen City

The Cumberland Fair Houlker described was in his native England. He said the physical layout at Fairgo reminded him very much of Cumberland, England, especially Knobley Mountain in the background.

Instead of horse races at the Cumberland, England, Fair there were races among the men and wrestling matches in the infield.

But what attracted most attention were the races of the hounds. Aniseed would be placed along a trail up the mountainside and back down to the fairgrounds the day before the miners from around Cumberland brought their hounds.

Hounds And Bookies

Each hound would be numbered and the bookmakers would take plenty of bets. Champions from past years usually were favored. Then the owners would release their dogs and wait for their return. Following the aniseed scent, the dogs eventually would reach the fairgrounds and each would run up to his master.

Houlker is working at the Fair here with a Scotchman who bears the Irish name of Joseph McCarthy. McCarthy said he came to the United States 23 years ago from Glasgow, Scotland, and returned in February to pursuade Houlker to come with him. They auction off such things as watches and clocks.

The Englishman has been with the Prell's Shows in Long Island, New Jersey and Pennsylvania since reaching this country. With that Lancashire accent of his, Houlker is easy to spot at Fairgo.

Frostburg Man Hurt As Car Strikes Truck

Reported in "fair" condition last night was John Bond, 20, of 88 Braddock Road, who suffered a badly lacerated left ear and bruised shoulders. X-rays were taken.

Bond, according to Maryland State Police, was attempting to pass a truck operated by E. R. Irwin, 79 Hill Street, Frostburg, at the time of the accident.

Neither Irwin nor John Struntz, Wrights Crossing, a passenger in the truck was injured. Tfc. J. F. Browning, of the Maryland State Police, said Bond would be charged with improper passing.

Birmingham Has Lead In Demo Senate Scramble

Mahoney May Lose To Former Manager

BULLETIN

BALTIMORE, Aug. 21 (AP)—Prince Georges and Baltimore county officially went on record tonight endorsing Michael J. Birmingham for the Democratic senatorial nomination to replace Millard E. Tydings.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 21 (AP) — Michael J. Birmingham, the flash entry in this week's heat for the Democratic candidacy for the Senate, appeared to have the lead today in the backstretch over his former stablemate, George P. Mahoney.

The race won't be over until next Monday, when the entire State Democratic Committee—152 votes—decides who will take Millard E. Tydings' place on the ballot to oppose Republican Sen. John Marshall Butler in the general election.

Tydings reluctantly resigned the nomination last Sunday because of his prolonged attack of shingles.

Last night, Baltimore's Mayor D'Alesandro, a staunch Tydings backer throughout, threw his support to Birmingham, president of the Baltimore County commissioners and the successor to D'Alesandro as Democratic national committeeman.

Others Drop Out

D'Alesandro's endorsement of Birmingham caused raised eyebrows among Democrats around the state, for Birmingham had steered Mahoney's primary campaign against Tydings.

Mahoney's supporters were loudly yelling "deal." They started laying plans for what they called a "moral force" to persuade the full committee to name Mahoney as Tydings' successor.

They contended that the party had a moral obligation to name Mahoney because of the closeness of the primary. In the primary, Tydings and Mahoney tied on convention votes, but the decision was given to Tydings because he had the larger popular vote.

Mahoney Gets Support

Today, Mahoney received the first guaranteed support at Monday's meeting when Anne Arundel County representatives took only five minutes to approve him as its choice to replace Tydings. The county has seven votes.

However, Birmingham's predicted lead was based on these factors:

Baltimore City has 42 votes in the committee. Birmingham is expected to have the backing of E.

Meetings Here Today Stress Highway Safety

Luncheon Will Begin Activities

The schedule calls for the first safety talks at noon at a luncheon meeting at the Fort Cumberland Hotel. More than 100 persons from the three Western Maryland counties—Allegany, Garrett and Washington—are expected.

They will discuss ways of curbing the highway death rate, which for the first time in four years is higher than at the corresponding time a year ago.

Hearing Planned

Paul E. Burke, executive director of the State Traffic Safety Commission, has extended the invitations.

At 2 p. m. a special committee appointed by the Legislative Council to recommend revisions of the State Motor Vehicle Laws will conduct a hearing for citizens of the three counties. Fred B. Driscoll, a member of the House of Delegates from Allegany County, will preside.

Other members of this committee are Senator George B. Rasin, Kent County; Senator Harry A. Cole, Baltimore City; Delegate Edgar P. Silver, Baltimore City; Delegate Joseph A. Acker, Baltimore City, and Delegate Thomas J. Hatem, Harford County.

Others Invited

Burke will end his day here by talking at the dinner meeting of the Cumberland Optimist Club.

Among suggestions to be considered are re-examination and relicensing of operators each three years at a cost of $1 each time. Del. Driscoll said this would be intended to eliminate some unsafe drivers from the highways.

Another suggestion calls for replacing the present license tags with reflectorized tags, for added safety and readability at night.

Farm Bureau Opens Drive For Members

Speakers, all from the State Farm Bureau office at Baltimore, were Wilbert Smith, state organization director; Sol Hoke, state information director; Kenneth Miller, State Bureau field man, and Everett Ecker, Associated Young People director.

All four will work in Allegany County today to line up new members for the Farm Bureau, and Smith will spend the rest of the week in this county.

Five or six teams will contact farmers in all parts of the county to point out advantages of membership in the Farm Bureau.

Board Refuses Beer License

The Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverages License Commissioners yesterday rejected the application of Selina Shanholtzer for a Class D beer license in a cafe on Main Street at Fairgo near the fairgrounds.

Board members contended that the applicant sought the license at this time to take advantage of the large crowds attending the Cumberland Fair this week and who will witness the annual race meeting from September 12 through September 25.

There already are sufficient beer license holders in that vicinity, the board ruled. The fact that both women who operate the business live some distance from the premises also was cited as an argument against granting the license.

Earl J. Mills, Frances Cullen and Joseph G. Robertson, as trustees of the Midland American Legion Post, were given permission to transfer their club-type beer, wine and liquor license from Main Street in Midland to the Vale Summit Road.

PPG Water Report Is Compiled

The Health Department has compiled a report outlining its findings and making recommendations to insure safer drinking water facilities at the Pittsburgh Plate Glass plant site at North Branch.

J. B. Dowling, sanitary inspector for the Health Department, said the reeport of his findings, made after 76 men became ill while working on construction projects at the huge plant site, would be forwarded to company officials immediately.

Dowling said his recommendations included chlorination of all drinking water until fountains and taps could be placed into use for utilizing the city water being piped to the plant grounds.

Barrels used for transportation of drinking water to crews at construction sites also are being chlorinated and drink dispensing machines which were to be made available to employes will not be hooked to water lines until city water can be used.

PPG plant officials said the 76 men who became ill on the job last week had returned and that no new outbreak has been reported.

The Health Department findings, while noting "moderate contamination" of the drinking water, did not specifically determine the actual cause of the men's illness.

Blind To Get Additional Aid

Further assistance for the blind residents of the Western Maryland area for rehabilitation and training will be given by Bernard E. Kelly, a representative of the state department's vocational and rehabilitation program.

Kelly said he will be covering this area assisting those with a disability due to blindness so they may either return to their jobs or be helped in a vocation.

He said that this is an old program but it is the first time anyone will be working with just the blind in this area.

Kelly makes his headquarters in Hagerstown but travels throughout this area. He said those who wish to contact him may do so through John Cobun, local director of the vocational and rehabilition program of the state department.

County Commissioners Hear Three Complaints

Three complaints were presented to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday by county residents.

Bus Regulations Outlined For Pupils As County Prepares For School Year

With the approach of the fall term of school for children of Allegany County public schools, parents are reminded of a few suggestions youngsters should observe while riding the school bus.

In a sense, according to Arthur G. Ramey, supervisor of transportation for county schools, the bus is a school. The driver, acting in the capacity of teacher, has authority to correct misconduct in a courteous manner.

Patrol leaders are to carry out the instructions of the driver and of the principal. Patrol leaders, acting under such orders, must be obeyed and respected by the pupils.

Pupils must respectfully obey the driver as to getting off and on the bus, as to the assignment of seats and as to any other regulations to insure the greatest comfort to all and the most efficient service.

Being on time is one of the necessary requirements, according to Ramey, who pointed out that the bus cannot wait unreasonably for those who are tardy.

Pupils must never stand in the roadway while awaiting a bus; unnecessary conversation with the driver is prohibited; outside of ordinary conversation, classroom conduct is to be observed; the use of tobacco and profanity or improper language is taboo; pupils must not enter or leave the bus until it comes to a full stop.

Incidentally, according to Ramey, the transportation of pupils to and from school costs approximately $250,000 annually. He said the Board of Education strongly feels that parents, as well as pupils and bus operators, should cooperate in the highest degree possible with the Board in order that children may be delivered to the school and returned home without hazard.

Large Crowd Visits Fairgo As Sun Shines

Kiddies' Matinee Brings Youngsters

The sun shone yesterday and an estimated 9,000 persons from many points in the Tri-State area traveled to Fairgo to visit the 39th annual Cumberland Fair, rained out of its starting date Monday.

Judging was the feature of the morning and afternoon hours and ribbons were displayed on many exhibits throughout the fairgrounds later in the day.

Yesterday was the first of two kiddies' matinee planned this week and Harry J. Barton, Fair superintendent, estimated that about 3,000 persons visited the premises in the afternoon. Last night another 6,000 were estimated on the grounds despite some cool temperatures and mud which remained from Monday's all-day rain.

Two Matinees

In past years Wednesday afternoon was the kiddies' day at the Fair but this year Barton decided to give the kids two treats with matinees on both Tuesday and Thursday.

The grandstand was about three-fourths filled last night for the first of three nocturnal performances of the variety show from a stage erected on the track in front of the stands.

Five attractive young girls from various points in the Tri-State area were introduced from the stage last night before the first night performance of the show. One of the five will be crowned Miss Fairgo Friday night. Patrons at the show are given ballots and are requested to vote for one of the five who will reign during the September 12-25 race meeting here. The winner will be named Friday.

Five Candidates

Candidates are Miss Helen Paxton, Williams Road, Allegany County Farm Queen; Miss Betty Bittinger, Loch Lynn, Garrett County Farm Queen; Miss Patricia Western, Wardensville, W. Va., West Virginia Poultry Queen; Miss Helen Kathleen Mills, Jenners, Pa., Somerset County Maple Queen, and Miss Louise Pyles of Keyser, Mineral County Farm Queen.

The 4-H Dairy Calf Club, with some 50 head of cattle on the grounds, will have its day at the fair today. The club cattle will be judged starting at 9 a. m.

Scenes At Cumberland Fair

Harry O. Harbaugh, top left, of Hagerstown, is shown with his three-year-old Holstein cow, Whispering Cedars High F, who was adjudged grand champion Holstein cow at the Cumberland Fair yesterday. She was a 1955 grand champion at Hagerstown, Huntington, W. Va., and Cumberland, and was a winner in a three-county field in Hagerstown earlier this year.

Yesterday was the first of two kiddies' matinees at Fairgo and the appearance of the youngsters in the toy automobile ride is evidence enough that they had a good time. Another matinee is planned tomorrow for the children.

Pines Bute, a three-year-old sow, has been having a busy time at the Cumberland Fair. She dropped her fourth litter Monday at Fairgo. Seven of the eight pigs in the litter survived and are proving quite an attraction at the 39th annual fair. The sow and pigs belong to Phil Carder, a member of the Oldtown FFA.

Dairy, Beef Cattle Judged At Local Fair

Robert Moore of Mt. Savage, a 4-H Club member, had the junior yearling champion bull. Walter J. Hahn of Frederick judged the Ayrshires.

S. Braden King of Boonsboro won blue ribbons for the grand champion bull and cow in the Jersey dairy cattle competition. John Dietrich, dairy cattle specialist at the University of Maryland, judged the Jerseys.

In the Guernsey competition Ralph McCauley of Washington County exhibited both the grand champion cow and bull. Herbert Snyder of Union Bridge was the judge. Another Washington Countian, Harry Harbaugh, showed the grand champion bull and cow in the Holstein breed. Ira Brooks of Pinto also exhibited Hilstein cattle.

James Bowers and son of the Bow-Ayr Farms of Fort Ashby showed the grand champion bull and cow in the Hereford beef cattle breed. W. G. Merrells of the Longview Farm at Burlington, W. Va., exhibited the grand champion Aberdeen-Angus female and bull.

Unusual Cumberland Fair Described By Englishman

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

A different kind of Cumberland Fair where bookmakers took large bets as to which hound dog would follow a scent over a mountainside and return to the fairgrounds first was described here yesterday.

The description came from Alfred Houlker of Manchester, England, who arrived in this country six weeks ago and has been working as an auctioneer in one of the new attractions with the Prell's Shows at the 39th annual Cumberland Fair which is running here all this week.

Like Queen City

The Cumberland Fair Houlker described was in his native England. He said the physical layout at Fairgo reminded him very much of Cumberland, England, especially Knobley Mountain in the background.

Instead of horse races at the Cumberland, England, Fair there were races among the men and wrestling matches in the infield.

But what attracted most attention were the races of the hounds. Aniseed would be placed along a trail up the mountainside and back down to the fairgrounds the day before the miners from around Cumberland brought their hounds.

Hounds And Bookies

Each hound would be numbered and the bookmakers would take plenty of bets. Champions from past years usually were favored. Then the owners would release their dogs and wait for their return. Following the aniseed scent, the dogs eventually would reach the fairgrounds and each would run up to his master.

Houlker is working at the Fair here with a Scotchman who bears the Irish name of Joseph McCarthy. McCarthy said he came to the United States 23 years ago from Glasgow, Scotland, and returned in February to pursuade Houlker to come with him. They auction off such things as watches and clocks.

The Englishman has been with the Prell's Shows in Long Island, New Jersey and Pennsylvania since reaching this country. With that Lancashire accent of his, Houlker is easy to spot at Fairgo.

Frostburg Man Hurt As Car Strikes Truck

A Frostburg motorist was admitted to Miners Hospital yesterday with injuries sustained in an auto-truck crash shortly after noon near the Eckhart Elementary School.

Reported in "fair" condition last night was John Bond, 20, of 88 Braddock Road, who suffered a badly lacerated left ear and bruised shoulders. X-rays were taken.

Miss Jacqueline Brant, a passenger in the car, was taken to the hospital and was treated for shock.

Bond, according to Maryland State Police, was attempting to pass a truck operated by E. R. Irwin, 79 Hill Street, Frostburg, at the time of the accident.

While descending a hill east on Route 40, Bond tried to pass the truck, but while he was doing so the driver began a left turn.

Neither Irwin nor John Struntz, Wrights Crossing, a passenger in the truck was injured. Tfc. J. F. Browning, of the Maryland State Police, said Bond would be charged with improper passing.

Birmingham Has Lead In Demo Senate Scramble

Mahoney May Lose To Former Manager

BULLETIN

BALTIMORE, Aug. 21 (AP)— Prince Georges and Baltimore county officially went on record tonight endorsing Michael J. Birmingham for the Democratic senatorial nomination to replace Millard E. Tydings.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 21 (AP) — Michael J. Birmingham, the flash entry in this week's heat for the Democratic candidacy for the Senate, appeared to have the lead today in the backstretch over his former stablemate, George P. Mahoney.

The race won't be over until next Monday, when the entire State Democratic Committee—152 votes—decides who will take Millard E. Tydings' place on the ballot to oppose Republican Sen. John Marshall Butler in the general election.

Tydings reluctantly resigned the nomination last Sunday because of his prolonged attack of shingles.

Last night, Baltimore's Mayor D'Alesandro, a staunch Tydings backer throughout, threw his support to Birmingham, president of the Baltimore County commissioners and the successor to D'Alesandro as Democratic national committeeman.

Others Drop Out

Others mentioned as possible nominees, such as William C. Walsh of Cumberland, dropped out of contention.

D'Alesandro's endorsement of Birmingham caused raised eyebrows among Democrats around the state, for Birmingham had steered Mahoney's primary campaign against Tydings.

Mahoney's supporters were loudly yelling "deal." They started laying plans for what they called a "moral force" to persuade the full committee to name Mahoney as Tydings' successor.

They contended that the party had a moral obligation to name Mahoney because of the closeness of the primary. In the primary, Tydings and Mahoney tied on convention votes, but the decision was given to Tydings because he had the larger popular vote.

Mahoney Gets Support

Today, Mahoney received the first guaranteed support at Monday's meeting when Anne Arundel County representatives took only five minutes to approve him as its choice to replace Tydings. The county has seven votes.

However, Birmingham's predicted lead was based on these factors:

Baltimore City has 42 votes in the committee. Birmingham is expected to have the backing of E.

Meetings Here Today Stress Highway Safety

Luncheon Will Begin Activities

Safety will be the chief topic of conversation in Cumberland today.

The schedule calls for the first safety talks at noon at a luncheon meeting at the Fort Cumberland Hotel. More than 100 persons from the three Western Maryland counties—Allegany, Garrett and Washington—are expected.

They will discuss ways of curbing the highway death rate, which for the first time in four years is higher than at the corresponding time a year ago.

Hearing Planned

Paul E. Burke, executive director of the State Traffic Safety Commission, has extended the invitations.

At 2 p. m. a special committee appointed by the Legislative Council to recommend revisions of the State Motor Vehicle Laws will conduct a hearing for citizens of the three counties. Fred B. Driscoll, a member of the House of Delegates from Allegany County, will preside.

Other members of this committee are Senator George B. Rasin, Kent County; Senator Harry A. Cole, Baltimore City; Delegate Edgar P. Silver, Baltimore City; Delegate Joseph A. Acker, Baltimore City, and Delegate Thomas J. Hatem, Harford County.

Others Invited

Members of the General Assembly, county commissioners, trial magistrates, state's attorneys, sheriffs, police chiefs, mayors, members of newspapers and radio stations, safety chairmen of women's groups, members of Chambers of Commerce, members of safety commissioners and state police are invited.

Burke will end his day here by talking at the dinner meeting of the Cumberland Optimist Club.

Among suggestions to be considered are re-examination and relicensing of operators each three years at a cost of $1 each time. Del. Driscoll said this would be intended to eliminate some unsafe drivers from the highways.

Another suggestion calls for replacing the present license tags with reflectorized tags, for added safety and readability at night.

Farm Bureau Opens Drive For Members

Thirty members of the Allegany County Farm Bureau last night attended a kickoff dinner to mark the opening of the Farm Bureau's membership drive here today.

Speakers, all from the State Farm Bureau office at Baltimore, were Wilbert Smith, state organization director; Sol Hoke, state information director; Kenneth Miller, State Bureau field man, and Everett Ecker, Associated Young People director.

All four will work in Allegany County today to line up new members for the Farm Bureau, and Smith will spend the rest of the week in this county.

Five or six teams will contact farmers in all parts of the county to point out advantages of membership in the Farm Bureau.

PPG Water Report Is Compiled

The Health Department has compiled a report outlining its findings and making recommendations to insure safer drinking water facilities at the Pittsburgh Plate Glass plant site at North Branch.

J. B. Dowling, sanitary inspector for the Health Department, said the reeport of his findings, made after 76 men became ill while working on construction projects at the huge plant site, would be forwarded to company officials immediately.

Dowling said his recommendations included chlorination of all drinking water until fountains and taps could be placed into use for utilizing the city water being piped to the plant grounds.

Barrels used for transportation of drinking water to crews at construction sites also are being chlorinated and drink dispensing machines which were to be made available to employes will not be hooked to water lines until city water can be used.

Dowling will check the chlorination procedures at the plant today to see that everything is proper.

PPG plant officials said the 76 men who became ill on the job last week had returned and that no new outbreak has been reported.

The Health Department findings, while noting "moderate contamination" of the drinking water, did not specifically determine the actual cause of the men's illness.

Blind To Get Additional Aid

Further assistance for the blind residents of the Western Maryland area for rehabilitation and training will be given by Bernard E. Kelly, a representative of the state department's vocational and rehabilitation program.

Kelly said he will be covering this area assisting those with a disability due to blindness so they may either return to their jobs or be helped in a vocation.

He said that this is an old program but it is the first time anyone will be working with just the blind in this area.

Kelly makes his headquarters in Hagerstown but travels throughout this area. He said those who wish to contact him may do so through John Cobun, local director of the vocational and rehabilitation program of the state department.

Board Refuses Beer License

The Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverages License Commissioners yesterday rejected the application of Selina Shanholtzer for a Class D beer license in a cafe on Main Street at Fairgo near the fairgrounds.

Board members contended that the applicant sought the license at this time to take advantage of the large crowds attending the Cumberland Fair this week and who will witness the annual race meeting from September 12 through September 25.

There already are sufficient beer license holders in that vicinity, the board ruled. The fact that both women who operate the business live some distance from the premises also was cited as an argument against granting the license.

Earl J. Mills, Frances Cullen and Joseph G. Robertson, as trustees of the Midland American Legion Post, were given permission to transfer their club-type beer, wine and liquor license from Main Street in Midland to the Vale Summit Road.

County Commissioners Hear Three Complaints

Three complaints were presented to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday by county residents.
